Politics for 1932
New Cotton Plan
Pity Poor China
Back Comes the Bustle

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE POLITICAL pot begins boiling. Political reporters dreaming and even seeing visions.

They discover that Governor Roosevelt of New York, expectant Democratic candidate, would pin in letters the words "power trust" to the coat-tails of President Hoover. According to reporters Governor Roosevelt means to say that President Hoover is letting power companies have it all their own way in the new development of power on the St. Lawrence. Democratic visions, however, that President Hoover is an engineer and doesn't know what power means to this country.

Power means light, employment, manufacture, production. It is the backbone, the heart and the lungs of industry.

When Mr. Hoover were engaged as engineer by a great industrial concern Mr. Hoover would say to his board of directors: "Don't let any outsiders control your power supply. You must control that yourselves."

He is now chief engineer and president of the greatest industrial concern on earth and can be trusted to say to his board of directors in the senate and house: "You must control your national power supply. Don't let any insiders or outsiders get hold of that. The people must keep control."

GOVERNOR LONG of Louisiana invites governors, lieutenant governors and senators of cotton producing states to meet in New Orleans on Friday and discuss suspension of all cotton growing next year.

Governor Long says that if nobody in America planted cotton in 1932 our accumulated surplus could be sold at a decent price, and all the world would have plenty.

That plan, probably, will not be carried out, because farmers must do something with their lands, mules and machinery. But it is better than the Farm Board's suggestion to plow under one-third of cotton already sown.

Governor Long's suggestion is favorably considered in a front page editorial by the New Orleans States and other Ewing newspapers usually opposed to the governor.

Those that live in Florida or California in the Winter are happy when they read New York or Chicago weather reports. It is strange, but it is human nature.

Perhaps some of us complaining about conditions will find that strange comfort in reading of floods in China. They have driven 30,000,000 Chinese from homes and land, and at least 10,000,000 are made absolutely destitute by the Yangtse River torrents. Imagine all the inhabitants of a dozen of our most important states suddenly driven from their houses, and you can imagine China's situation.

IN THE MIDST of all our depression and trouble the able authority on fashions, Monsieur Tappe, arrived from Paris yesterday predicting that women's evening dresses this fall and winter will include hoop skirts "and a modified use of the bustle."

Why woman should change the beautiful form given her in the Garden of Eden for things that make her look like a walrus with a big tumor is not easily understood.

But nature and evolution are undoubtedly working our some wise plan that will be understood thousands of years hence, but not now.

URGE REVISION OF WAR DEBTS

American and French Delegates on Committee Recommend Changes.

STUDY GERMANY'S NEEDS

Report Swings Heavy Club on Tariff Systems of Many Nations.

By The Associated Press

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 19—A recommendation that the entire structure of inter-governmental war debts and German reparations be revised as the first step toward the return of world prosperity was made today by the Wiggin Bankers' committee.

The committee was set up by the Bank for International Settlements at the behest of the seven-power conference in London to investigate Germany's credit needs. It is headed by Albert H. Wiggin of New York, and is composed of the representatives of the 10 leading banking nations in the world.

Criticizes Nations

Their report criticized political differences existing between Germany and her European neighbors and urged that current disputes be cleared up in order that "good times" might again prevail in all nations.

Germany's reparations payments were assailed as an immense obstacle to the peaceful, economic progress of the world and the great powers were advised to "lose no time" in revising the schedule of international payments.

"We therefore conclude," the report said, "by urging most earnestly upon all governments concerned that they lose no time in taking the necessary measures for bringing about such conditions as will allow financial operations to bring to Germany, and thereby to the world, sorely needed assistance."

The recommendation came from leading bankers of the United States and France, heretofore outstanding opponents of such revision.

To Extend Credits

A committee representing Germany's creditor nations, meeting alongside the Wiggin group, agreed to recommend to their central banks that existing short term credits totaling about $1,200,000,000 be extended for a further six-month period.

After many hours of sharp discussion, the German spokesman agreed to permit the gradual partial withdrawal of Reichsbank balances now held for foreign depositors. These had been frozen in accordance with the German government's decree and had caused much displeasure among foreign depositors in German banks.

The report swung a heavy club on tariff systems which it said were obstructing commerce and rendering it impossible for burdened debtor nations to sell their goods and pay their debts.

BISHOP OPENS CHURCH MEET; 200 ATTEND

TO VOTE ON 3 QUESTIONS

Terms of Pastors and Retirement of Bishops Will Be Considered.

Two hundred ministers and laymen of the Evangelical church attended a meeting this morning formally opening the ninety-fourth annual session of the Ohio Evangelical conference at Calvary church.

Bishop J. F. Dunlap of Cleveland declared the formal opening, which was followed by Holy Communion services. Bishop Dunlap spoke on the attitude that should be taken toward the communion service. "We should regard the Lord's Supper as a festival, more than as a fast, thanking God for His mercy," he said.

"We are to think of communion as a memorial of Christ, His atoning and reconciling powers. The sacrament was instituted by Our Lord and it leads us to the presence of the King of the Kingdom," he continued. "At the communion table we should have a consciousness of the real presence of Christ Jesus. The material symbols of the communion are bread and wine, representing the flesh and blood, but the spiritual communion is essential as we approach the communion table. And to commune with Our Lord and Christ means to commune one with the other at the table.

Communion Service Held

The communion table was prepared and the bishop and the four presiding elders of the conference, Rev. W. H. McLaughlin of the Canton district, Rev. W. H. Schuster of the Cleveland district, Rev. R. A. Sain of the Columbus district and Rev. D. L. Caldwell of the Toledo district, knelt at the table. Rev. Mr. Caldwell offered the consecratory prayer. The ministers and lay delegates and visitors joined in the service.

In a brief resume of the Evangelical heritage, Bishop Dunlap charged the men to hold to the duty that you owe your Lord, hold fast to the Word of God, the integrity of the Scriptures and divine religion, hold to the atonement of Christ, the death of Christ and the power of redemption, hold fast to experimental religion, hold on to a definite conversion and to emphasize it, preach the assurance of faith which establishes us in the purity of heart and the holiness of life and to stand for denominational solidarity because the best denominationalist makes the best interdenominationalist.

Greetings to the conference were extended through Bishop Dunlap from the Central Pennsylvania

NEW GOVERNMENT IN POWER IN HUNGARY

Premier Bethlen Resigns After 10 Years at Head of Nation.

By The Associated Press

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 19—Count Julius Karolyi today accepted from Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, a mandate to form a new government succeeding that of Count Stefan Bethlen, who resigned this morning after 10 years as premier.

The only explanation thus far given for the resignation is that, after considering the general situation last night, and "in view of changed circumstances" the government felt bound to resign.

On the advice of Count Bethlen, Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, called into conference John Tolescky, former finance minister; Count Julius Karolyi, foreign minister of the Bethlen cabinet; Paul Pesthy and Stephen Rubinek, of the united government party, and Dr. Alexander Ernszt, minister of social welfare and a leader of the Christian economic party.

PRESIDENT ASKED TO CALL EXTRA SESSION

Gov. Pinchot Urges Action To Provide Aid for Nation's Needy.

By The Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 19 — Governor Pinchot today sent a letter to President Hoover urging him to call a special session of congress in the near future to consider the question of federal aid to provide relief for the unemployed.

"You have yourself asked for appropriations by congress for relief of the needy in distant parts of the world," the governor wrote, "and, having obtained them, have supervised their expenditure. It would seem to be most opportune that you should do no less for our own needy here at home. Only an extra session of congress can empower you to do so in time."

CUBAN REBEL CHIEFS CAPTURED

Here are the leaders of the Cuban revolution, who surrendered to government troops, leaving a gunboat under military guard after arrival in Havana. They were taken to Cabana fortress where they will remain until their fate is decided. In front, left to right are: Julio de Cardenas, Raul Menocal, son of rebel leader, Gen. Mario Menocal; General Menocal, and a Cuban army officer. In rear between Cardenas and Menocal is Col. Cortes Mendieta.

Government Fears Revolt May Spread to Capital at Havana.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—A representative of the Cuban Junta in New York said today that three expeditions from Europe had landed in various ports of Cuba and were ready to start a great drive.

They are commanded by a former lieutenant colonel of the United States army, who has already been designated as chief of staff of the revolutionary forces.

Soldier Since 18

This army man has been a soldier since he was 18. He is now 39 years old, a holder of several meritorious service awards and is one of the brilliant artillery officers who commanded units in France during the World war. He has also seen service in China.

The Junta said his name would be made public soon as word is received from Cuba of certain action.

The Junta announced that many American, German, French and Austrian army officers had joined its forces.

"We are ready to place 20,000 well-equipped men in the field," the representative of the Junta said. The rebel forces also claim possession of 300 machine guns and a complete chemical warfare outfit.

HAVANA, Aug. 19—Authoritative news of the Cuban revolt was effectively bottled up by government censorship today but reports indicated decisive battles were brewing in several provinces.

A rebel expedition comprising 500 men and scores of machine guns landed at Gibrari in upper Oriente from the German vessel Frederick II. The palace admitted unofficially that the report was true but said the force was surrounded by federal troops.

Another expeditionary force was reported to have landed on the upper Santa Clara coast and rebels were said to have derailed the Fomento-Trinidad train south of

Orville Wright, Pioneer of Air, Honored Today

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., Aug. 19—An air minded world, steeped in nearly three decades of aviation's big parade, remembered today the birthday of one who pioneered the air—Orville Wright.

At a quiet summer retreat on the shores of Georgian bay, Canada, Wright observed his sixtieth birthday anniversary.

Ever a subscriber to things simple, the co-inventor of the first heavier-than-air craft passed the day quietly in the company of a few close friends and relatives.

Receives Messages

Scores of messages from friends and admirers attested to the recognition of his achievements, realized in collaboration with his brother, Wilbur, who died in 1912.

Although 28 years have passed since the Wright brothers startled a skeptical world at Kitty Hawk, N. C., with their daring flight into the air on man made wings, Orville has retained all of his keen interest in aeronautical development.

Enjoying constant good health, he is to be found daily in his Dayton laboratory.

Sees Progress

Often called into consultation on matters of aviation, he makes his laboratory his consultation chamber where he deals with problems of the air that are still basically much the same as those of 1903.

Many air miles have been flown since the memorable December day on Kitty Hawk's wind blown sand dunes. But from the flight of the flimsy Wright glider have developed modern Leviathans of the air that constitute an industry unto themselves.

In recent years Wright has not engaged in actual flying activities, but has contented himself with furthering the industry he was instrumental in founding.

WATCH AND RING SAVED

Jack Geyer Loses $3; Police Unable To Find Holdup Men.

When Jack Geyer of 643 Grant street dropped a valuable wrist watch he reduced his loss to $3 when he, with a young woman companion, were held up and robbed by two Negroes at the Oak street entrance to Lincoln park late last night. They also failed to obtain a ring which could not be removed from his finger.

Geyer told the police that he had driven his car up in the park entrance with the intention of backing out to turn around, when two men suddenly appeared from the bushes. They mounted the running board of the car and with drawn revolvers commanded Geyer to drive further into the park.

Reaching a point sheltered from the street lights, they commanded the two to get out. They did not molest the girl, Geyer said, but went through his pockets, and after taking about $3 in change, attempted to remove the ring from his finger. As he stepped from the car, Geyer said he released the wrist watch and dropped it to the ground, where it was later recovered.

Finding they were unable to remove the ring, the holdup men vanished and Geyer drove at once to police headquarters. The police searched the neighborhood but failed to find any trace of the men.

OZIAS TESTIFIES IN HIGHWAY QUIZ

Adds to Cooper Statements Regarding Purchase of Garage.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19—Cliff Ozias, engineer in the state auditor's office, was summoned as a witness today as the senate highway investigation committee delved further into the affairs of the department of highways.

His testimony was to supplement that of former Governor Myers Y. Cooper and two of his cabinet members dealing with the purchase of a department garage at Troy. M. T. Dills, Troy land owner, asked $8,750 for the garage site and building and finally accepted $7,500 plus 11 months rent totaling $1,375, it was brought out by the testimony.

Widow of Bob LaFollette, Family Counselor, Dies

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 — Mrs. Belle Case LaFollette, widow, mother and counselor of noted Progressive leaders, died here late yesterday of shock following an abdominal operation.

Both Senator Robert LaFollette, Jr., and Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, sons, and daughters, Mrs. Ralph O. Sucher of Washington, D. C., were at the bedside when death came.

Greets Sons

The distinguished sons of the 72-year-old widow of the late Senator "Fighting Bob" LaFollette arrived only a few hours before the end after rushing by airplane and train from their Wisconsin homes. She recognized them, greeting them with a faint smile.

Few Knew of Illness

So brief was the sickness of LaFollette that few friends knew she was ill. Hope for her recovery had been held out to the last.

Accompanied by the sons and daughter the body will be returned to Madison, Wis., late today.

Tentative arrangements call for a single service at either the Wisconsin executive mansion or the family home Friday.

Engrossed in writing a biography of the man she married more than half a century ago, Mrs. LaFollette was stricken several days ago and an operation to remove an intestinal obstruction performed.

LINDBERGHS TO SPEND NIGHT IN DRIFTING PLANE

Motor Trouble Develops Shortly After Leaving Siberian City; Trouble Righted by Colonel in Two Hours.

1000-FOOT FOG BANK CAUSES SECOND HALT

Wireless Messages from Plane Indicate Lindberghs Apprehensive as Visibility Becomes Poor; Stop Near Primitive Island.

By The Associated Press

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 19—Twice forced down in attempting to fly the 887 miles from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, to Nemuro, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh apparently were spending tonight afloat in their plane on the sheltered side for a forbidding and uninhabited island about which swirl powerful ocean currents.

A few minutes after leaving Petropavlovsk their motor developed trouble and they were forced to descend at Avatcha bay, Kamchatka. Two hours later they were off again, and got as far as Shimushiru island, a little over half way to Nemuro, when they ran into a fog bank 1,000 feet deep.

Harbor in Fog

Turning back with the intention of landing at Muroton bay, Shimushiru, the Lindberghs evidently found the harbor there enshrouded by fog and were unable to affect a landing. Mrs. Lindbergh appealed to Ochiishi wireless station here for the position of two ships, the Kokusai Maru and the Shimushiru Maru, both of which she knew were in her vicinity.

Finally the fliers brought their plane safely down on the lee of the rockbound island of Ketoi, 15 miles from Muroton bay. Whether they would be able to reach shore was not clear in the reports.

Strong currents swish about most of the Kuriles and vessels approach them with the utmost caution.

That the Lindberghs themselves were somewhat apprehensive of the dangers was indicated in the messages asking the positions of nearby vessels. Mrs. Lindbergh repeated the request several times before landing.

Near Primitive Tribe

At Ketoi the Lindberghs were in the realm of the Hairy Ainu, a primitive people inhabiting the Kuriles. The Ainu live in caves and hunt and fish with the crudest instruments. Word of the Lindberghs' approach recently brought them out of their caves for a glimpse at the "great man bird."

Leaving Petropavlovsk at 5:45 a. m. (6:45 p. m. Marion time Tuesday) after two and one half days delay in their vacation flight because of bad weather, the fliers made good time down the island chain after repairing their motor. Messages from the plane indicated they had flown out in the fog enshrouded region of Shimushiru for about an hour before making the landing.

Upon turning back Mrs. Lindbergh messaged that the landing would be made at Muroton bay, saying the plane was descending at 4:26 p. m. Tokyo time (2:26 a. m., Marion time today). Some time later she reported the landing at Ketoi and said they would resume their flight to Nemuro "as soon as possible."

Asks Emergency Permit

Lindbergh anticipated the possibility of trouble over the Kurile islands. He sent a message to the American embassy in Tokyo requesting it seek in his behalf an emergency landing permit for somewhere in that region. The permit was granted.

The Kurile region is an earthly paradise for hunters, fishermen and naturalists. The encircling seas teem with fish. Huge grizzly bears, possibly the forerunners of the grizzlies of the American northwest, gorge themselves on fish and roam the forests practically unhunted. Above the fog banks, volcanic peaks bear their fiery cones.

REITER BOUND OVER IN WALDO BURGLARY

In Jail Under $1,000 Bond; Brother Still in City Hospital.

A watch belonging to Earnest Stoner, owner of a Waldo filling station, and found in the possession of the prisoner, provided the evidence that yesterday afternoon resulted in Lawrence Reiter, of Toledo, being bound over to the grand jury by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin on a charge of breaking and entering.

Stoner was the only witness placed on the stand by the prosecution at the hearing in municipal court. When he identified the watch found in Reiter's possession when arrested, the prisoner was bound over under $1000 bond and was taken back to the county jail.

Reiter, who maintained his innocence of the burglary until last week when he is said to have made a verbal confession to Sheriff C. C. Pye, first said he was walking along the road and laid him down in the woods to rest when he was captured by Stoner.

Clement Reiter, a brother of Lawrence, who was also captured by Stoner after he had fired two shotgun shells into his legs and back, is still at the City hospital. He will be arraigned in municipal court as soon as he is able to be removed.

Three-Day Convention Closes with Stormy Session; Herbert Named Commander.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19—Ohio legionnaires resumed the normal tenor of their ways today after three days devoted to the business of their thirteenth annual convention.

In a stormy closing session yesterday, the legion adopted a laissez faire policy in regard to prohibition repeal, chose former State Senator Paul Herbert as state commander and continued official recognition of its junior auxiliary, the Legion-heirs.

Amid confusion and turmoil, the climax of two days discussion, delegates tabled a resolution to put the Ohio department on record as favoring modification or the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The repeal resolution was introduced from the floor by William E. Hadley of Cincinnati after the resolutions committee deadlocked five to five on the question.

Herbert was elected commander to succeed John A. Elden of Cleveland without opposition. Similarly were reelected Harry J. Gilligan of Cincinnati as treasurer and the Rev. E. J. Gracey, of Cleveland as chaplain.

Mrs. Edward Johns of Massillon was elected president of the women's auxiliary, and Mrs. Lester J. Merritt, of Columbus, vice president.

Herbert served as a machine gunner overseas and came out of the war a captain. He became commander of Franklin post at Columbus in its early days after the war.

Herbert served two terms in the Ohio senate. Following his service in the state legislature, he was appointed chairman of the legislative committee of the Ohio department of the Legion.

Oh My! These Teams Just Can't Decide Which is Worst

LUTHERANS WALLOP EPWORTH SENIORS IN LAST PLACE FIGHT

Corwin Has Only Six Men Behind Him in Game for Cellar Post.

And they say, history doesn't repeat itself!

Last season in the No. 1 Sunday school league the Epworth Bishops trailed the league all season up to the final games. Then in this final start they chalked up a victory and gained a deadlock for seventh place with the Christian No. 1 nine. In the play-off to decide which team would lose its post in the No. 1 league the Bishops were winners, walloping the Christians 11-2 in the play-off.

This year at least part of the same situation is taking place. Up to yesterday the Lutherans were trailing the No. 1 league, with the Epworth Seniors just a step ahead. After yesterday's game for the "Cellar Championship" the Lutherans had a 10-3 victory and a tie for seventh, necessitating a play-off to see who gets to stay in the faster circuit.

It really is a tough break for some of the players on the Senior's lineup, particularly Bryant Corwin, the club's hurler. With only six other men in uniform for the game, Corwin never had much of a chance to win, despite the fact he hurled a good game, granting only 11 hits with six man support. Atkinson, youthful Lutheran pitcher, was nicked for eight safeties by the Seniors but somehow or other you just can't seem to put seven men on a field against nine for the opposition and still win ball games.

As a result of the Lutheran victory yesterday it will be necessary to play another game to decide the cellar occupant and incidentally see which team will continue to compete in the No. 1 circuit.

Batteries and score by innings:

Epworth Seniors	100 020 0— 3
Lutherans	010 302 4—10

Reformed vs. Epworth.

Weather permitting, the Epworth No. 1 recreation baseball team will meet the First Reformed Sunday school at 6:15 p. m. today on the Steam Shovel athletic field. The game will see Bob Gamble and Dale Schwaderer, two of the city's best pitchers, opposing each other.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

I suppose I should have been born a reformer, but whether I should or not, I think there is one thing in Marion softball badly in need of reforming. That is the entering of protests. With a possible one or two exceptions there hasn't been a justifiable protest entered this season. True enough, there were technical grounds on which some of them were justified but I still think the teams that turned them in would have shown a far better spirit of play had they taken their beating without squawking.

• • •

A couple of seasons ago the city commission voted to charge $2.00 for every protest, the protesting team to lose this charge if the protest was not allowed. It worked fine for a year. Two dollars apparently was a lot of money. Not so now. The urge to win is so great the teams would gladly contribute $2.00 for even an outside chance to have a defeat on the field turned into a victory in the commission. The only good thing about it all has been the small number allowed by the commission.

• • •

The only remedy I can see is to raise the protest fee to about $10.00 and make the team protesting forfeit it unless the protest is allowed. Then I suppose you'll have to boost the ante again in another year or two. Anyway, something ought to be done about it.

• • •

Tonight the city commission will name the umpires for the Little World's series. A real job it is, too. The regular umpires will all want a job. The commission must name the most competent. And whether or not they wish to admit it, there are umpires in the city who have not shown themselves competent to work in World's series competition. They are honest but lack experience and training. Umpires not chosen to work in the series should not take it as a personal slap by the commission.

• • •

The commission is placed in office to handle the game in the best possible manner. The members do all possible to please as many as is expedient with the best interests of the game. Obviously it cannot satisfy everybody. However, if one wants to be honest with himself he can point out very few instances where the commission has pulled a "boner" in running the game here.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 19—E. G. Livesay of Columbus led the field at the start of the 36-hole finals of the Ohio southpaw golf tournament today.

In the first 36-holes yesterday, Livesay turned in low score of 157, leaving the defending champion, C. E. Nixon, Columbus, in second place with 160. Trailing in third place was E. N. Payne of Beckley, W. Va.

Other first round scores were: Arthur Wells of, East Liverpool, 169; W. P. Frasier of Lima, 175; Arthur Jackson of Mt. Vernon, 185; J. M. Baumgartner of Williamson, W. Va., 285, and Angus King of Mt. Vernon, 191.

Livesay was reelected president of the Ohio Southpaws association at the annual dinner last night. Other officers included Wells, who was named treasurer.

William Ernest Lusby of Chicago, versatile football and baseball star at Wisconsin for three years, will join the Badger coaching staff this fall.

Association Stickers Have Big Day Banging Extra Base Hits.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 — If there are any of the old "rabbit" style of baseballs left in the American Association, they must have gotten out a batch of them yesterday when the athletes slammed out 36 extra base hits.

Most prominent in the business of hitting doubles was Ernie Smith, Minneapolis infielder who got four in the second game of a double header at Louisville to equal the American Association record.

St. Paul showed Indianapolis a little something about rousing finishes by scoring seven runs in the ninth inning for a 14 to 7 victory.

Len Koenecke got a homer for the Indians, and Durst hit one out of the park for the Saints.

The big hitting demonstration of the day was provided by Minneapolis in its second game with Louisville after taking the first game 10 to 8, the Millers blasted three Colonel hurlers for 21 hits in the second game, to win, 17 to 4.

Claude Jonnard, veteran Milwaukee southpaw, turned in the best heaving performance, holding Columbus to five hits, while the rest of the Brewers trumped Grabowski, Ash and Eckert for 12, and an 8 to 2 victory. Jonnard also got a homer.

Toledo bunched 11 hits in the last four innings to defeat Kansas City 7 to 5.

PALFREY SISTERS IN FIRST TENNIS UPSET

Massachusetts Pair Rudely Interrupt Monotony of Play in Net Tournament.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19—The monotonous regularity with which play has followed form so far in the women's national tennis championship has been rudely interrupted by the Palfrey sisters, Sarah and Mianne of Sharon, Mass.

Sarah, younger of the two sisters, sprang the one real upset of the tournament yesterday when she eliminated Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, in the second round, 1-6, 8-6, 6-1. Mianne came within two points of accomplishing the elimination of the veteran British star, Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron. As it was the Sharon girl finally bowed to her older rival's superior steadiness, 1-6, 6-3, 7-5.

The only other seeded star to suffer elimination was Majorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., who strained a muscle in her back and was forced to default after she had split two sets with Alice Francis of Orange, N. J.

All the other favorites advanced, including Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Helen Jacobs, Betty Nuthall and Phyllis Mudford. Mrs. Moody encountered surprising opposition from Mary Greef, young Kansas City star, who went down, 6-2, 6-3; Miss Jacobs trounced Virginia Rice, 6-0, 6-2; Miss Nuthall eliminated Clara Greenspan, New York, 6-4, and Miss Mudford put out Cecelia Riegel, Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-1.

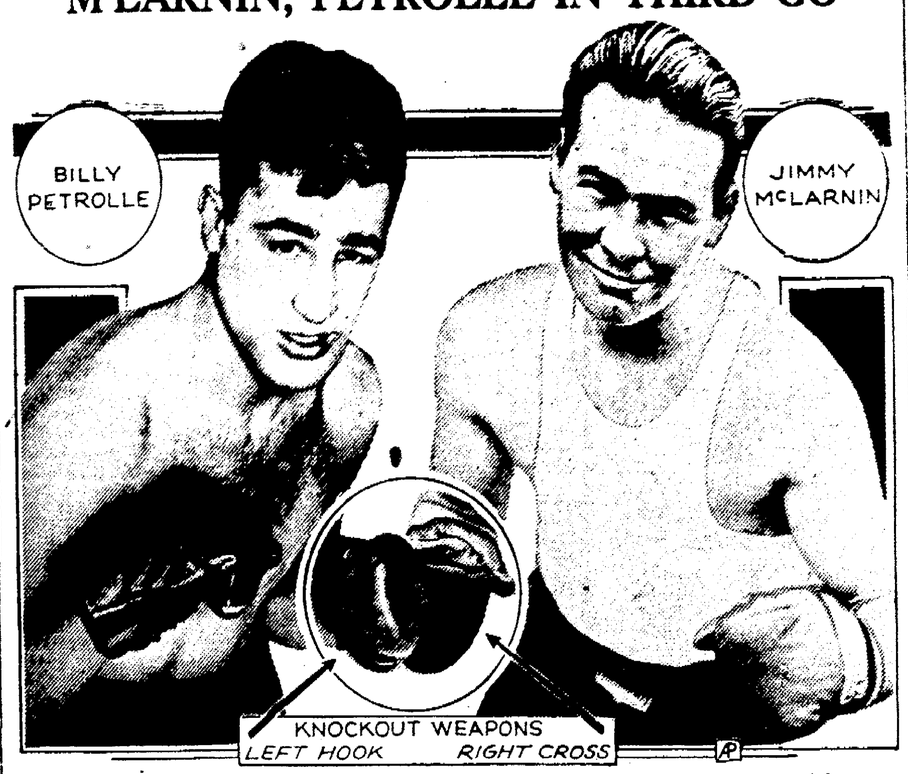
M'LARNIN, PETROLLE IN THIRD GO



When one goes to see a prize fight nowadays he has, in most cases, little reason to expect he is going to see any fighting. The boys are too busy doing other things.

However, when the two young men pictured above, Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, and Jimmy "Baby Face" McLarnin get together in the same ring, things begin happening, fistically speaking, in a big way. These boys fight from the first gong to the last, that is, if either of them is able.

Thursday night the two will meet in the third of a series of fights. Each has won one of the previous rows so don't be surprised at anything that happens when they get together the third time. They'll hit each other with everything but the corner posts. They'd use them if they weren't fastened down.

RANDALL TRACK HAS ONE-DAY MEETING

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 19—The fifth renewal of the $3,000 homebrew sweepstakes found five heroes of the old grand circuit at North Randall track today for the one-day card.

A consolidation division of the Homebrew also will be raced for a club trophy.

Kashmary, pre-race favorite, will be piloted by Ben. F. White.

Doc Parshall will drive Alvin Guy, A. C. Pennock's entry; Fred Egan will guide Jane Willett for C. F. Crowley; Sam Caton will handle Charles Taner's uplift, and Charlie Lacey will handle the reins of Kate Thomas, the nomination of Tommy Thomas.

Last season Calumet Bush captured the stake. Doc Parshall won the event in 1929 with Legality, and in 1928, Crusader triumphed for Charles Taner.

M'LARNIN, PETROLLE IN THIRD RING WAR

Two Clouting Pugs Clash in "Rubber" Match Over 10-Round Distance.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19—Fighters who fight are a rather scarce article in this day and age but boxing followers will have a chance to see two of that ilk in the same ring at the Yankee stadium tomorrow night when Jimmy McLarnin, and Billy Petrolle square off for the third time in eight months.

McLarnin long has been one of the best drawing cards in the business while Petrolle's sensational comeback after a year's retirement has caught the public fancy.

McLarnin took the worst beating he ever suffered from "Fargo Billy" when they met for the first time in the garden last November.

A few months later they clashed again. This time McLarnin fought a carefully planned battle. Sticking to his left hand almost exclusively, Jimmy stopped Petrolle's mad rushes to close quarters and easily outpointed him.

Thursday's battle is slated for 10 rounds.

Issues Challenge.

The Nevada Merchant Boosters recreation baseball team have issued a challenge to any Marion team to play a game in Nevada any evening or on Sunday. Nevada will play a return game here if desired. O. F. Kuenzli is manager of the Nevada team.

Nevada is the team which gave the Linden Gophers a terrific battel in the Central Ohio tournament game last Sunday at Lincoln park, finally succumbing 4-0. They have one of the best pitchers in this section doing the hurling.

AFTER 16TH IN ROW

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—Robert Moses Grove, the world champion Athletics' great lefthander, today was down to face the White Sox in an effort to equal the American league record of 16 straight pitching victories.

Of Grove's 24 triumphs this season, the last 15 have come in a row, and another today would tie the record set in 1912 by Joe Wood of Boston, and equalled the same season by Walter Johnson of Washington.

The modern major league record is 19 straight by Rube Marquard of the New York Giants, another southpaw, in 1912.

SHUTE LEADS FIELD OF 65 AT LIMA IN OHIO OPEN TOURNEY

Amateurs Lose Out as Money Players Set Fast Pace in Tournament.

By The Associated Press

LIMA, O., Aug. 19—Densmore Shute was in the saddle again today as the field prepared to tee off in the final 36-holes of the Ohio Open golf championship.

The Hudson, O., professional touring Shawnee course yesterday with effective thoroughness, turned in a sub-par 68 and a second round 74 to take a one-stroke advantage over the field of 65 in defense of his title.

Steve Zappe, Springfield, a former state champion, and Lou Waldron of Celina, were tied in the runner-up position with 143.

At the close of the first 36-holes of play, amateur stars found themselves in the ruck and playing a decided second fiddle to the money players.

One amateur ranked in the first 11 low scores. Bob Kepler landed in a three-way tie for fifth place with 146, four points behind Shute. Another Dayton amateur, Scotty Reston, rated second in the amateur standing with a score of 150. Johnny Florio, Columbus, carded 152. The rest of the amateur field was virtually out of the running.

Eddie Williams, professional at the Westwood club in Cleveland, started out in par-shattering fashion with a 69, but cracked badly on the second 18 to take a 75. Williams tied for third with Jack Collins of Dayton at 144.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Ralph Kress, Browns—His double in third drove in two runs that beat Senators, 4-2.

Charley Gehringer, Tigers—His fourth hit of game, a double, drove in winning run against Yankees, in 11th.

Fred Frankhouse, Braves—Held Cubs to five hits to win, 3-2.

St. Louis soccer players have formed an organization to provide doctors and hospital service to victims of accidents in games.

GEHRIG TAKES PART IN 1000TH GAME AS TIGERS DOWN YANKS

St. Louis Browns Chalk Up Victory Over Washington Senators.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Henry Louis Gehrig has played in 1,000 consecutive games for the Yanks and has not given a sign of weakening.

Only two players in the major leagues have ever beaten that mark. Everett Scott took part in 1,307 games for the Boston Red Sox and the Yankees from 1916 to 1925, and Joie Sewell, now a Yank, played 1,103 for Cleveland.

Gehrig, who became New York's regular first baseman in June 1925, has won numereus honors as a star batter.

Plays 1,000th Game

Gehrig took part in his 1,000th game yesterday, without adding anything to his batting laurels. He failed to get a hit in five attempts against Detroit and after eleven innings saw his team go down to a 5-4 defeat before the last place team of the American league. It was a nip and tuck contest in which a home run by Charley Ruffing, Yankee pitcher, put the New Yorkers ahead in the ninth only to have the Tigers tie the count and win out two innings later when Bridges singled and Charley Gehringer brought him in with a double.

Only one other American league game was played yesterday and in it the St. Louis Browns turned on Washington's Senators after three straight defeats and pulled out a 4 to 2 triumph.

Braves Rally To Win

The Boston Braves likewise made a comeback to win one of the National league's two games. After dropping four straight to the Chicago Cubs, they staged a ninth inning rally behind the fine pitching of Fred Frankhouse and downed Chicago, 3 to 2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, although they lost their series to the Phillies, threatened Boston's hold on fifth place when they pounded out a 14 to 4 triumph in the final game. Chuck Klein hit his twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth home runs of the season for Philadelphia but his clouts had little effect against Pittsburgh's 18 hit attack. Paul Waner led the drive with five singles in six trips to the plate.

The other teams in both major leagues had an open date.

To Decide Game Site

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, today had a date to flip a coin to determine the site of the Cub-White Sox charity baseball game September 9. Comiskey park, home of the Sox, has the greater seating capacity—60,000 to 45,000 for Wrigley field, but both clubs are eager to have the game played at "home."

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meat, Grain, Livestock

Peaches for canning selling at $1.25 to $1.39 a bushel was the outstanding Wednesday morning special offered by dealers today. Georgia and Tennessee peaches were on the market and dealers report ready sales of both as the result of the unusually low prices. Home grown varieties are not coming on the market as was anticipated by dealers. Watermelons at 25 cents were 10 cents lower than the bottom price asked the last several weeks. Cantaloupes were more plentiful today and were selling at from 10 to 15 cents.

Sweet corn reached the low level of the season today when a price of 10 cents was being quoted. The supply continues large. Tomatoes were also lower today, several dealers offering six pounds for 25 cents. Sweet potatoes were being quoted at four pounds for 25 cents. Cucumbers were selling today at three for 10 cents and canning pickles at 30 cents a hundred.

WHEAT SCORES SLIGHT GAINS

Price Higher as Liverpool Reports Heavy Flour Buying; Corn Sags.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 — Wheat prices averaged higher and corn lower early today, with September corn reaching a new bottom for the season. Upturns in wheat were responsive to a rise at Liverpool and to reports on big flour purchasing in England. Persistent liquidating sales affected corn. Opening ⅛@¼ cents up, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started unchanged to ⅝ off and afterward sagged farther.

Wheat price advances here reflected upturns in Liverpool quotations. The action of the Liverpool market was ascribed largely to likelihood that Great Britain would soon establish a 10 per cent import duty on foodstuffs. Such a duty would be bullish in Great Britain but bearish in the United States. Indications, however, pointed to enlarged export business over night in wheat from North America, including some domestic hard winter grades. Persistent adverse weather in northern Europe was noted.

An authoritative trade estimate issued today placed the European wheat crop exclusive of Russia at 1,430,400,000 bushels, against 1,370,400,000 last year, an increase of 60,000,000 bushels. World import requirements were estimated at 778,000,000 bushels, compared with 784,000,000 a year ago. The same authority forecast United States exports at 224,000,000 bushels against 112,000,000 last year, with Canadian exports much reduced. Deferred deliveries of corn were steadied by wheat strength. Oats followed corn.

COURT NEWS

Cross-Petition Filed

Judgment for $460 against Ernest A. Abrams and Winifred B. Abrams is asked in the answer and cross-petition of Anna M. Richardson and Albert Richardson, filed in common pleas court this morning. Foreclosure of a mortgage on a lot in Haberman's second addition is sought by the cross petitioners.

The answer and cross petition was filed in the suit of the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. against Ernest A. Abrams and others. Anna M. Richardson and Albert Richardson are represented by Attorney L. E. Myers.

Statement Asked

A motion asking the court to require Ora D. Davis, plaintiff, to make his petition more definite by filing an itemized statement of the amount due him as a creditor of Bert D. Davis, deceased, was filed in common pleas court this morning by Beatrice Davis and Herbert Davis, defendants in the case. The law firm of Donithen & Donithen is counsel for Beatrice Davis and Herbert Davis.

Judgment Sought

Ida Ralston has filed suit in common pleas court against Lucinda Walters and Charles Walters, seeking judgment for $61.73. The plaintiff asserts she purchased a lot from the defendants in 1920, and that the deed for the property said the title was clear. At the time the deed was made, the plaintiff maintains, the property was subject to liens of $38.58 taxes and $20.84 in special assessments, plus penalties for delinquency. Judgment for the amount of the taxes and penalties is asked. It was reported yesterday that Lucinda Walters and Charles Walters had purchased the property from Ida Ralston.

Shovel Files Motion

A motion to have the petition of Cecil B. Brown in his damage suit against the Marion Steam Shovel Co. made more clear was filed in common pleas court yesterday by the defendant. Brown filed the suit to collect damage for injuries allegedly sustained while working on a sewer construction job. The law firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery represents the Shovel company.

$1,111 Judgment Granted

Judgment for the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. against Rose Anna Zwicker for $1,111.90 and foreclosure of a mortgage if the judgment is not paid within three days was ordered by Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court today.

The Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. also obtained judgment today for $4,018.84 against Emma Kinsler and Charles Kinsler and for Rose Anna Zwicker for $316.20.

Named Administratrix

Edith Welch has been appointed and qualified as administratrix of the Margaret A. Witcraft estate by order of Probate Judge Oscar Gast.

Receiver Files Suit

C. D. Schaffner, receiver for the Citizens' Building & Loan Co., yesterday filed a foreclosure action in common pleas court against the First National Bank of Ada and others. Foreclosure of a mortgage on a note in the Forest Hill addition, a marshalling of liens, and judgment for $3,449.39 is asked. The receiver is represented by the law firm of Carhart & Warner.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Duffy of 626 son born Tuesday morning.

A son, Donald, Jr., was born Sunday to Mr. and Mrs. Donald McGraw of 127 Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clark of 449 Fleo avenue are the parents of a daughter born yesterday afternoon at City hospital.

Dream of Wilderness Game Farm Blasted by Action of Council

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 18—Blasting one of the fondest dreams of Ohio sportsmen, conservation officials today admitted that years of work spent on the 9,000-acre Roosevelt game preserve in Scioto county, in an attempt to reconstruct the early American wilderness, may have been wasted.

For the first time since the opening gesture to rebuild the frontier was made, during the administration of former Governor Harry L. Davis, officials today confessed that they were "uncertain" about Ohio's fitness to propagate big game.

Sportsmen's hopes that the tract may some day be stocked with great herds of deer were given a set-back with the announcement that the state conservation council has decided, temporarily at least, to "retrench" at the Roosevelt preserve.

The first display of the council's uncertainty about the wisdom of proceeding to encourage wild life in an intensive manner was its recent decision to abolish the position of supervisor at the Roosevelt preserve, which was held by John Williamson as counsel for Ida Ralston.

Brown, International News Service was informed by A. F. Moon of Conover, chairman of the conservation council.

Brown's position was vacated and the council decided to supplant Brown with one of the game protectors residing in that area.

The game protector selected, it was ordered, will supervise the wild game propagation in addition to his other duties. Indicating the council no longer regarded the intensive encouragement of big game as important as it was previously considered.

TON-GEE REMEDY MY SALVATION SHE DECLARES

The Only Thing To Ever Help This Marion Lady; Is Calling It a "Wonder Medicine."

Mrs. W. J. Robbins, of 255 Elm street, Marion, is still another widely known resident who is publicly praising Ton-Gee, which is the great doctor's natural medicine that has recently become a sensation here in Marion and is now being introduced to large crowds daily in this city at the Stump and Sams drug store. Following is Mrs. Robbins's OWN STATEMENT praising and endorsing Ton-Gee to ALL WHO SUFFER:

"Ton-Gee is nothing short of wonderful. I had been a sufferer for years, but it simply worked the misery right out of me and made me into a different person," said Mrs. Robbins. "I had gotten to be a great victim of stomach and liver trouble. What I ate would sour and would not digest at all, and gas would form in my stomach and bloat me into a terrible condition and it would press on my heart and make me dizzy all over. Dreadful headaches would come over me and last for days at a time. Even my nerves would ache and pain me and I was so nervous that I would go all to pieces at the least thing.

"Oh, I tell you, it would be hard for ANYBODY to realize the condition my whole system had gotten into and I kept spending all kinds of money trying every medicine that I could hear of but nothing helped me. Then my husband told me about Ton-Gee and I made up my mind to try it. Will say that I was amazed at the way it acted, for it started right in to cleanse all the impurities out of me, and it worked the suffering out of my stomach and my food digests without any gas or sourness; and it is simply wonderful the way it sets regulates them in a natural manner on the bowels for it cleanses and clears. It cleared up my liver trouble so that I don't suffer any more with headaches, and it also quieted down my whole nervous system and I can go to bed and get SOUND and HEALTHY sleep all night. I think Ton-Gee is the greatest thing of the kind that EVER CAME HERE. It is a wonder medicine and I want to recommend it to EVERYBODY WHO SUFFERS."

BOARD TO DISCUSS YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Family Welfare Society Directors To Estimate Winter's Relief Work.

Plans for the ensuing year will be discussed at a meeting of the board of directors of the Family Welfare Society at a meeting early next week, H. B. Walker head of the society, announced today after a meeting of the executive board last night.

In the meantime, no relief is being given out at the offices of the society in the Y. M. C. A. building, which have reopened after being closed a month.

What steps will be taken to finance the heavy relief burden anticipated next winter, and estimates of the relief needs for the next 12 months will be taken up at the board meeting, Mr. Walker indicated.

OWENS FILES DENIAL OF WIFE'S CHARGES

Asks Court To Dismiss Divorce Petition; Hearing Expected Next Month.

A general denial of the charges contained in the divorce petition of Mabel Chapman Owens is made in answer filed in common pleas court this morning by attorneys for Clifford A. Owens, Marion manufacturer.

The answer admits Mrs. Owens is a legal resident of the county, and admits the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Owens, the birth of two children, and the death of John A. Owens, one of their two sons.

After entering a denial to all other charges, Owens asks the court to dismiss the divorce petition, and for all proper relief.

Mrs. Owens is now receiving $750 a month alimony, while the divorce action is pending. She received $500 for attorney fees and preparation of her case by order of Common Pleas Judge George B. Scofield.

Hearing of the divorce case is not expected to be held until the middle of September, as divorce cases can not be heard until after six weeks from the date the petition was filed. Mrs. Owens charged gross neglect, extreme cruelty, riotous living and other offenses in her petition filed July 29.

Owens is represented by the law firm of Mouser, Young, Mouser & Wiant and Carhart & Warner

Local Man Recounts Many Interesting Experiences as Prospector in Alaska

Of those in the city who, in looking back over their early life, can recall adventures and experiences which do not occur in the lives of the average person, few can recall more thrilling adventures than George W. Robertson of 224 Windsor street.

Three trips as a gold prospector into the wilds of Alaska, a half-century ago when civilization in that country was in its infancy, has provided Robertson with a fund of memories large enough to suit the fancy of the most romantic.

Robertson recounts being thrown into the surging, rushing waters of a narrow canyon with $3,700 in gold, representing a year's work, dragging him down as one of the outstanding memories of his experiences in the gold fields of the north.

Start in Canoe

The fall of 1882 had arrived. For nearly a year Robertson with five other prospectors had toiled in the bleak wastes of the gold fields, each day bringing the consolation that it was nearer the time when they would leave for the south. The last day finally arrived and the six, with an Indian as a guide, launched their canoe in the Copper river and headed south.

All went well until they reached a narrow canyon in the river where the waters, compressed by the narrowing walls, leaped and rolled. The canoe, Robertson said, had just reached the opposite side of the canyon, when a wave of water caused the craft to capsize. With the weight of the gold dragging him down, Robertson said he fought to reach the shore but was finally forced to abandon the gold in order to swim to safety. One other prospector, the Indian guide and himself, he said, were the only ones to survive.

Reaching the shore, Robertson said he discovered that the Indian guide and the second prospector had landed on the opposite side of the river. With only his jack knife as a tool, Robertson said he constructed a crude raft and two days later launched it on the river at the same time the two on the opposite shore launched a similar raft. Steering their rafts toward the center of the river, the party was finally able to join forces.

Three Trips Made

Three prospecting trips were made by Robertson into the Alaskan gold fields, the first in 1881, the second a year later and the third in 1883. The first two trips were fruitful, between $8,000 and $10,000 worth of gold being obtained. The loss of the $3,700 in the Copper river and unfortunate investments in San Francisco, however, wiped out the result of the three years of toil.

Many interesting experiences are recalled by Robertson. Picking strawberries from top of a glacier more than 600 feet in depth was one of these. Robertson and his partner were seated on the ground picking wild strawberries when, idly digging into the soil, he struck ice. Going to the edge of a nearby canyon he discovered they had been sitting on about six inches of soil spread over a glacier that was approximately 600 feet in depth.

Robertson was also the first white man to cross the Frazier river in a rope and bucket ferry. With his companions, he reached the river just after a rope had been stretched to serve as a track for a ferry made of a wheelbarrow body supported by four ropes. The ropes were attached to a pulley which was suspended from the track rope. Another rope fastened at each side of the river provides the means of locomotion.

The ferry had just been completed and, after a test load of stone had been pulled across, Robertson said he volunteered and became its first passenger.

Ohio's New Tax Laws

This is the eighth of a series of articles by International News Service, explaining new taxation laws adopted by the Ohio 89th general assembly.

By International News Service

Penalties of $100 a day await financial institutions and dealers in intangibles who fail to observe special provisions in the new Ohio personal property tax law.

Financial institutions will be held responsible for paying into the county treasury the taxes due on shares of stocks held by their stockholders, and if they fail they are liable to the $100-a-day punishment, under terms of the law adopted by the 89th general assembly.

All "dealers in intangibles," or persons running places of business for lending money, discounting, buying or selling bills of exchange, or buying or selling bonds, stocks or other investment securities for profit, also can be forced to pay the $100-a-day penalty.

Dealers in intangibles also are to be required to collect the taxes due from the owners of stock and turn them over to the county treasurer.

In both cases, some officials of each firm must supply between the first and second Monday of March a complete list of the resources and liabilities as of Dec. 31, accompanied by a full statement of the names and addresses of the owners.

Besides the $100-a-day penalty, the financial institutions and dealers in intangibles also will be required to pay the regular amount due in taxes.

FAST AND NIMBLE ··SMOOTH AT EVERY SPEED
That Describes Oldsmobile's Performance

In spite of their brevity there are three words which will give you a real idea of what Oldsmobile's performance is like. And those three words just about encompass everything you want in a motor car. + + The first is FAST. If you have ever competed against Oldsmobile's performance on the road, you'll agree that the car well merits this description. If you haven't, all you need to do is to try Oldsmobile on some stretch of road where you can open the throttle wide . . . and thrill to its smooth, effortless speed. + + The second term which so well fits Oldsmobile's performance is NIMBLE. That means you can drive about town with the utmost ease—sprinting away from other cars at the traffic light, and slipping easily through heavy traffic to go swiftly on your way. + + The third term, and one of the most important, is SMOOTH. Oldsmobile's abundant power is delivered smoothly and quietly throughout the entire speed range—so that the car's brilliant performance abilities are yours to enjoy to the fullest extent. There is never a feeling that you are "pushing" or straining the engine. + + Fast. Nimble. Smooth. Those three words tell the whole story. But to appreciate just how much of a story they tell, you have to get behind the wheel. And when you do drive Oldsmobile, you'll realize that here is the car you've been looking for all this time—the car you want, and the car you can easily own for a most moderate investment.

Firestone Secretary

Rev. F. A. Firestone of Lorain was selected conference secretary and chose as his assistants, Rev. H. Fuessner of Cleveland, Rev. LeRoy Deininger of Mansfield, Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Marion, Rev W. R. Shisler of Cleveland and Rev. H. M. Shadle of Columbus. Miscellaneous business of the conference was discussed before adjournment at noon.

Bishop Dunlap in speaking of the Evangelical heritage, spoke as follows: "Christianity is one adequate and divine religion which satisfies the spiritual needs of the world. Physically, mentally, morally and in every way, where the religion of Christ has gone, men are at their best. The religion of Christ Jesus sets men free to live a glad and useful life and an abundant life. The religion of Jesus Christ does not free men from service, but uses them in the service of the Kingdom of our Lord and Christ."

Summers Gives Sermon

Last night, after the registration and assignment of lodgings, Rev. H. V. Summers of Akron, O., preached at Calvary church on the changes which are taking place everywhere except in the religion of Christ.

His sermon in part follows: "Change is written both in nature and the affairs of men. Only those things found in the realm of the spiritual are permanent and being permanent are of course immovable.

"God always has, and always will be in human thinking. The fact is that when man thinks at all he thinks upon God. Even the efforts of atheistic Soviet Russia to educate the idea of God out of its citizens proves this assertion.

"The word of God is here to stay. Despite all the efforts to destroy and discredit it, it is today the most vital Book in the world. The administration of the Holy Spirit in the affairs of the church is permanent for this age."

Committees to Meet

This afternoon the delegates met in committee groups and for conference business session. The annual Student Aid society meeting was scheduled for 4 p. m.

Tonight Bishop Dunlap will preside as chairman at Institutional night in which Rev. F. W. Heubner of Flat Rock, O., Prof. H. R. Heininger of Naperville, Ill., Prof. E. E. Domm of Naperville, Ill., Rev. J. R. Niegarth of Cleveland and Rev. W. E. Peffley of Lemoyne, Pa., will speak on the institutions supported by the church.

Thursday morning's meeting will consist of conference business and an address by the bishop and in the afternoon Dr. C. A. Mock of Cleveland will deliver an address at 4, which is one of four he will give Thursday and Friday.

WEATHER MAY HALT SHOW AT AIRPORT

Stage Set for Demonstration at Local Landing Field Today.

Plans were being made at Marion airport at noon today to stage the aerial show planned for this afternoon, despite rainy weather this morning and last night, Harold W. Cobb, chief pilot and manager at the port announced.

Continued rain, however, would force the pilots down and cause a postponement of the show, Cobb said.

Two delayed parachute jumps, a demonstration by the Beechnut Packing Co. autogyro, and exhibition flights by a Curtis-Wright Junior from Port Columbus were scheduled features of the event.

Lodge Meets.

Canby lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias, met last night in regular session at the lodge hall with a short business meeting held. The next meeting will be Aug. 25.

GUARDS PATROL OIL DISTRICT

Forced Shutdown In Texas Producing Area Nearly 100 Per Cent Effective.

By The Associated Press

KILGORE, Tex., Aug. 19—Texas National Guardsmen continued their patrol of the east Texas oil field today, intent on closing down the last of a handful of wells still flowing in lonely sections in violation of martial law orders.

General Jacob F. Wolters, commander of the troops, who announced yesterday the shutdown was practically 100 per cent effective, hoped to be able to report today that the valve on every one of the 1,600 producing wells in the field had been turned off in compliance with the orders of Governor Ross S. Sterling who acted to curb the prolific field until Texas' new oil conservation laws could be put into action.

Wells Sealed Shut

Guardsmen had evolved a new method to prevent operators from reopening wells without their knowledge. Seals were being placed on each valve as the well was closed down. Troops patrolled in zig zag fashion so operators would not feel safe in reopening.

The shutdown in the east Texas field together with the complete stoppage of crude oil production in Oklahoma by Governor William H. Murray's martial law order, has resulted in cutting off two-fifths of the nation's output.

Mid-Continent operators watched closely the effect of the sharp cut in production to see if it would relieve the depressed petroleum industry. Many leaders of the industry expressed the opinion it would bring higher prices. The first move along this line came yesterday when the Norgan Petroleum Co. in Oklahoma increased its price for Oklahoma oil to 77 cents a barrel, a boost of 25 cents from the previous maximum. Governor Murray had demanded $1 a barrel.

Prices Higher

A contract was reported between a Houston Texas independent and an Oklahoma refiner for 200,000 barrels of east Texas crude at 53 cents. Other reports from the field were that Kilgore storage oil was being held at prices ranging from 60 to 65 cents. A large amount of oil previously moved at 7½ and 10 cents.

In an effort to raise Kansas prices, the state public service commission was preparing for a hearing next month to determine the extent of a possible shutdown.

Santa Clara. The government dispatched 200 more soldiers to Santa Clara to form lines with the detachment there against rebels concentrating near Trinidad.

Army headquarters announced that Colonel Aurello Hevia, his son and two other rebel leaders were captured in Colon, Matanzas province. They will be imprisoned in Caban fortress with former President Menocal and Col. Mendieta, prime movers of the revolt.

President Gerardo Machado remained in Santa Clara, attempting to quell the movement, but little news of his success reached here.

Fear that the insurrection might spread to Havana led the government to take stringent precautions. Ten armored trucks remain in front of police headquarters for possible emergencies.

A report from Camp Columbia on the outskirts of Havana said the bodies of 180 federal troops, killed in action, had been brought there, although official sources said only six had lost their lives. The government count show 67 rebels dead.

MARION RESIDENTS FILE DAMAGE SUITS

Seek $22,000 in Crawford County Courts for Injuries in Auto Accident.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Aug. 19—Damages totalling $22,000 are asked in four suits filed by Marion residents in the court of common pleas here today, against Charles Klein of this city. The suits are the outgrowth of an automobile accident which occurred on the Marion-Bucyrus road seven miles south of here Nov. 23, 1930. The plaintiffs are Mrs. Ida Cabins, LaVerne Hedges, Mary Hedges and the Yorkshire Insurance Co., of Marion.

Mrs. Sabins asks $15,.000 for permanent injuries which she claims to have sustained in the accident while LaVerne Hedges claims damages amounting to $1,500 for injuries to her right arm,. left ankle and back and scalp wounds. Mary Hedges seeks damages amounting to $5,000 for a fractured collarbone and a contusion of the right hip and back. The insurance company seeks damages amounting to $509.96.

The suits were filed against the father of Harold Klein, driver of the car which the plaintiffs claim crowded them into the ditch. Theodore Ochs and the firm of Guthery, Strelitz & Guthery represent the Marion people

Will Attend Rites.

Arrangements to attend the funeral this afternoon of William H. Layman were made last night at the meeting of Mispah Encampment No. 30, I. O. O. F. held at the lodge hall. The routine business of the lodge was transacted. Sept. 1 is the next meeting date.

See of Marmora—19 miles—in five hours yesterday. She swam the straits lengthwise, whereas Leander only swam across once a night to visit the lovely Hero. Miss Grew's father with two friends followed in a small boat, giving her hot chocolate from time to time, playing music on a talking machine continuously.

The lively airs of the phonograph doubtless helped as much as the chocolate, which is a nourishing food, excellent stimulant for the muscles.

Kings and chiefs for more than 50 centuries have known that music would make men march, fight and even starve better. That is why armies have military bands.

WE ARE "FEARFULLY and wonderfully made," and should praise the Lord especially for our powers of resistance.

United States public health service warns granite cutters and other workers in stone that there must not be more than nine million specks of dust in each cubic inch of air they breathe.

If the number of dust specks in each cubic inch of air rises as high as 60,000,000 units, workers are in serious danger.

In a majority of granite plants workers breathe air with about 60,000,000 units to the cubic inch, and many die of consumption after 20 years.

It is amazing also how many germs a child's constitution will stand in a cubic inch of milk. But when the germs run into too many millions they make trouble. Simple devices protect stonecutters, simple pasteurizing protects milk drinkers.

CHINA'S NATIONALIST government would like to buy some of our Farm Board's 250,000,000 bushels of wheat bought to stabilize prices. China would like to pay for the wheat a long time from now, and the question is, unfortunately, will today's Chinese government still be a government when the long time ends?

When the time for payment comes, new rulers from Canton may say, as Russian's government now says to our holders of Russian bonds: "Collect your money from those that borrowed it. We didn't borrow it."

Horse Mackerel Tows Boat 11 Hours; Escapes

By United Press

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 19—A story of being towed to sea for 11 hours by a giant horse mackerel was recounted here today when an 18-foot motor tender reached port after being missing over night.

Jay Holmes, wealthy New York sportsman and skipper of the craft, told of the strange adventure which he and several friends had in the waters outside Portland harbor.

The anti-climax of the story was Holmes admission that the big fish finally got away.

Holmes and his friends went out late yesterday to fish for horse mackerel (some of which weigh more than a quarter of a ton) in the vicinity of Portland lightship.

They harpooned one of the giant mackerel and prepared to wait for it to tire itself out. But so small was their boat, Holmes said, that the big fish took it in tow and for 11 hours they were obliged to stand helplessly by as it propelled them seaward.

Finally the mackerel broke away. Holmes said and the motor tender returned to port.

MRS. BOB LA FOLLETTE DIES IN WASHINGTON

from private law practice, to district attorney, United States representative, governor and senator, and finally to the Progressive nomination for the presidency in 1924.

Taught School

An active campaigner both for woman's suffrage and for her husband in 1924, Mrs. LaFolette nevertheless found her chief work in making the family a forum of progressivism. It was her wisdom as mother, and her perennial youth of mental outlook that called forth the young senator's tribute.

Born at Wonewoc, Mrs LaFollette spent her girlhood at Baraboo. She met Robert Marion LaFollette on the campus of the State university at Madison. They were married several years later, after she had followed the first profession she learned—school teaching. That was in 1889. LaFollette had just graduated in law.

While he practiced, she went back to the university and studied law. By the time he was elected district attorney, she was the first woman graduate in law. Thenceforward she shared his public life as few wives of public men have done.

MOTORISTS CRASH CROSSING LIGHTS

Police Nab Three Drivers at Orchard and Center Streets

Traffic violators were common at the intersection of west Center and Orchard streets around 9 o'clock last night, according to the police blotter this morning. At 9 o'clock E. Williams, 50, of Brush Ridge was arrested for crashing a red light. He was released on his own recognizance for his appearance in court when wanted.

At 9.20 James J. Irey, 19, of Marion R. F. D. No. 6, was arrested at the intersection for driving with improper lights. His car was held for his appearance in court today and at 9.35, James Turner, 60, of 378 Hane avenue, was arrested for crashing the red light. He put up $5 for his appearance in court today.

"REMOVE THE CAUSE—Nature Will Do The Rest"
SUFFERED 20 YEARS WITH SEVERE PAIN IN MY SIDE, ZO-RO-LO RESTORED MY HEALTH

Mr. A. C. West, 531 Howard St., Findlay, O., writes:

"I have suffered for twenty years with a severe pain in my left side. When I would lie down on my left side it felt as if there were a stone weighting me down. I consulted several physicians, took osteopathic and chiropractic treatments, but got no relief. One physician told me I had gall bladder trouble and needed an operation, also due to my run down condition. I was unable to undergo the operation. I am now seventy-seven years old and in the twenty years that I have been afflicted I found no relief until I discovered ZO-RO-LO. I can not give this great medicine too much praise. My wife has long been a sufferer with neuritis and bladder trouble and she is much better since taking this remarkable medicine."

Another typical voluntary statement like the hundreds on file in the ZO-RO-LO offices. If everything else has failed, don't give up hope! Try ZO-RO-LO and start on the road to glorious new health. Attorney, Former Judge, Loses Fight To Reverse Own Decision

A Marion woman, Mrs. Clara Shaw, is plaintiff in a complicated legal action decided this week by the third district court of appeals at Lima, members of the law firm of Carhart & Warner, which represents Mrs. Shaw, announced today.

The case was begun by Mrs. Shaw as administratrix of the estate of Lydia A. Bodine, to sell property to pay debts. The story of a Union county common pleas judge, who in the practice of law after he retired from the bench, sought to have his ruling on the case reversed in a higher court, and the bitter fight of a technical legal question provide an interesting background for the case.

Nine years ago, Lydia Bodine died, making her husband, Amos Bodine, life tenant in her estate and naming him executor. He probated the will, but never qualified as executor, and failed to pay her funeral expenses and a note against her. He borrowed $525 from the Union County Savings & Loan Co. on property turned over to him as life tenant.

Marion Woman Named

When he died, the estate automatically reverted to the heirs of Lydia Bodine, and since her estate had not been properly settled by her husband, the court appointed the Marion woman as administratrix.

The court action resolved itself into a battle among lienholders to determine whose lien was first. The funeral expenses and other obligations of Lydia Bodine were better liens than the note given the loan company by Amos Bodine, the court held.

In making this decision, the appellate court affirmed a judgment made by Judge E. C. Porter while common pleas judge of Union county.

Became Counsel for Loan

When the case was tried before Judge Porter, the Union County Savings & Loan Co. was represented by F. LeRoy Allen. Immediately after he had given judgment in the case, Porter was succeeded as common pleas judge by Attorney Allen. Porter became counsel for the loan company, succeeding Allen.

Porter then appealed to the appellate court to reverse the decision he had made a few weeks before as common pleas judge, according to Fred L. Carhart, member of the law firm of Carhart & Warner. Porter's appeal was lost in the decision of the appellate court received here this week.

The decision of the appellate court was made by Charles L. Justice of Marion, and Phil M. Crow. Judge William Klinger dissented in the decision.

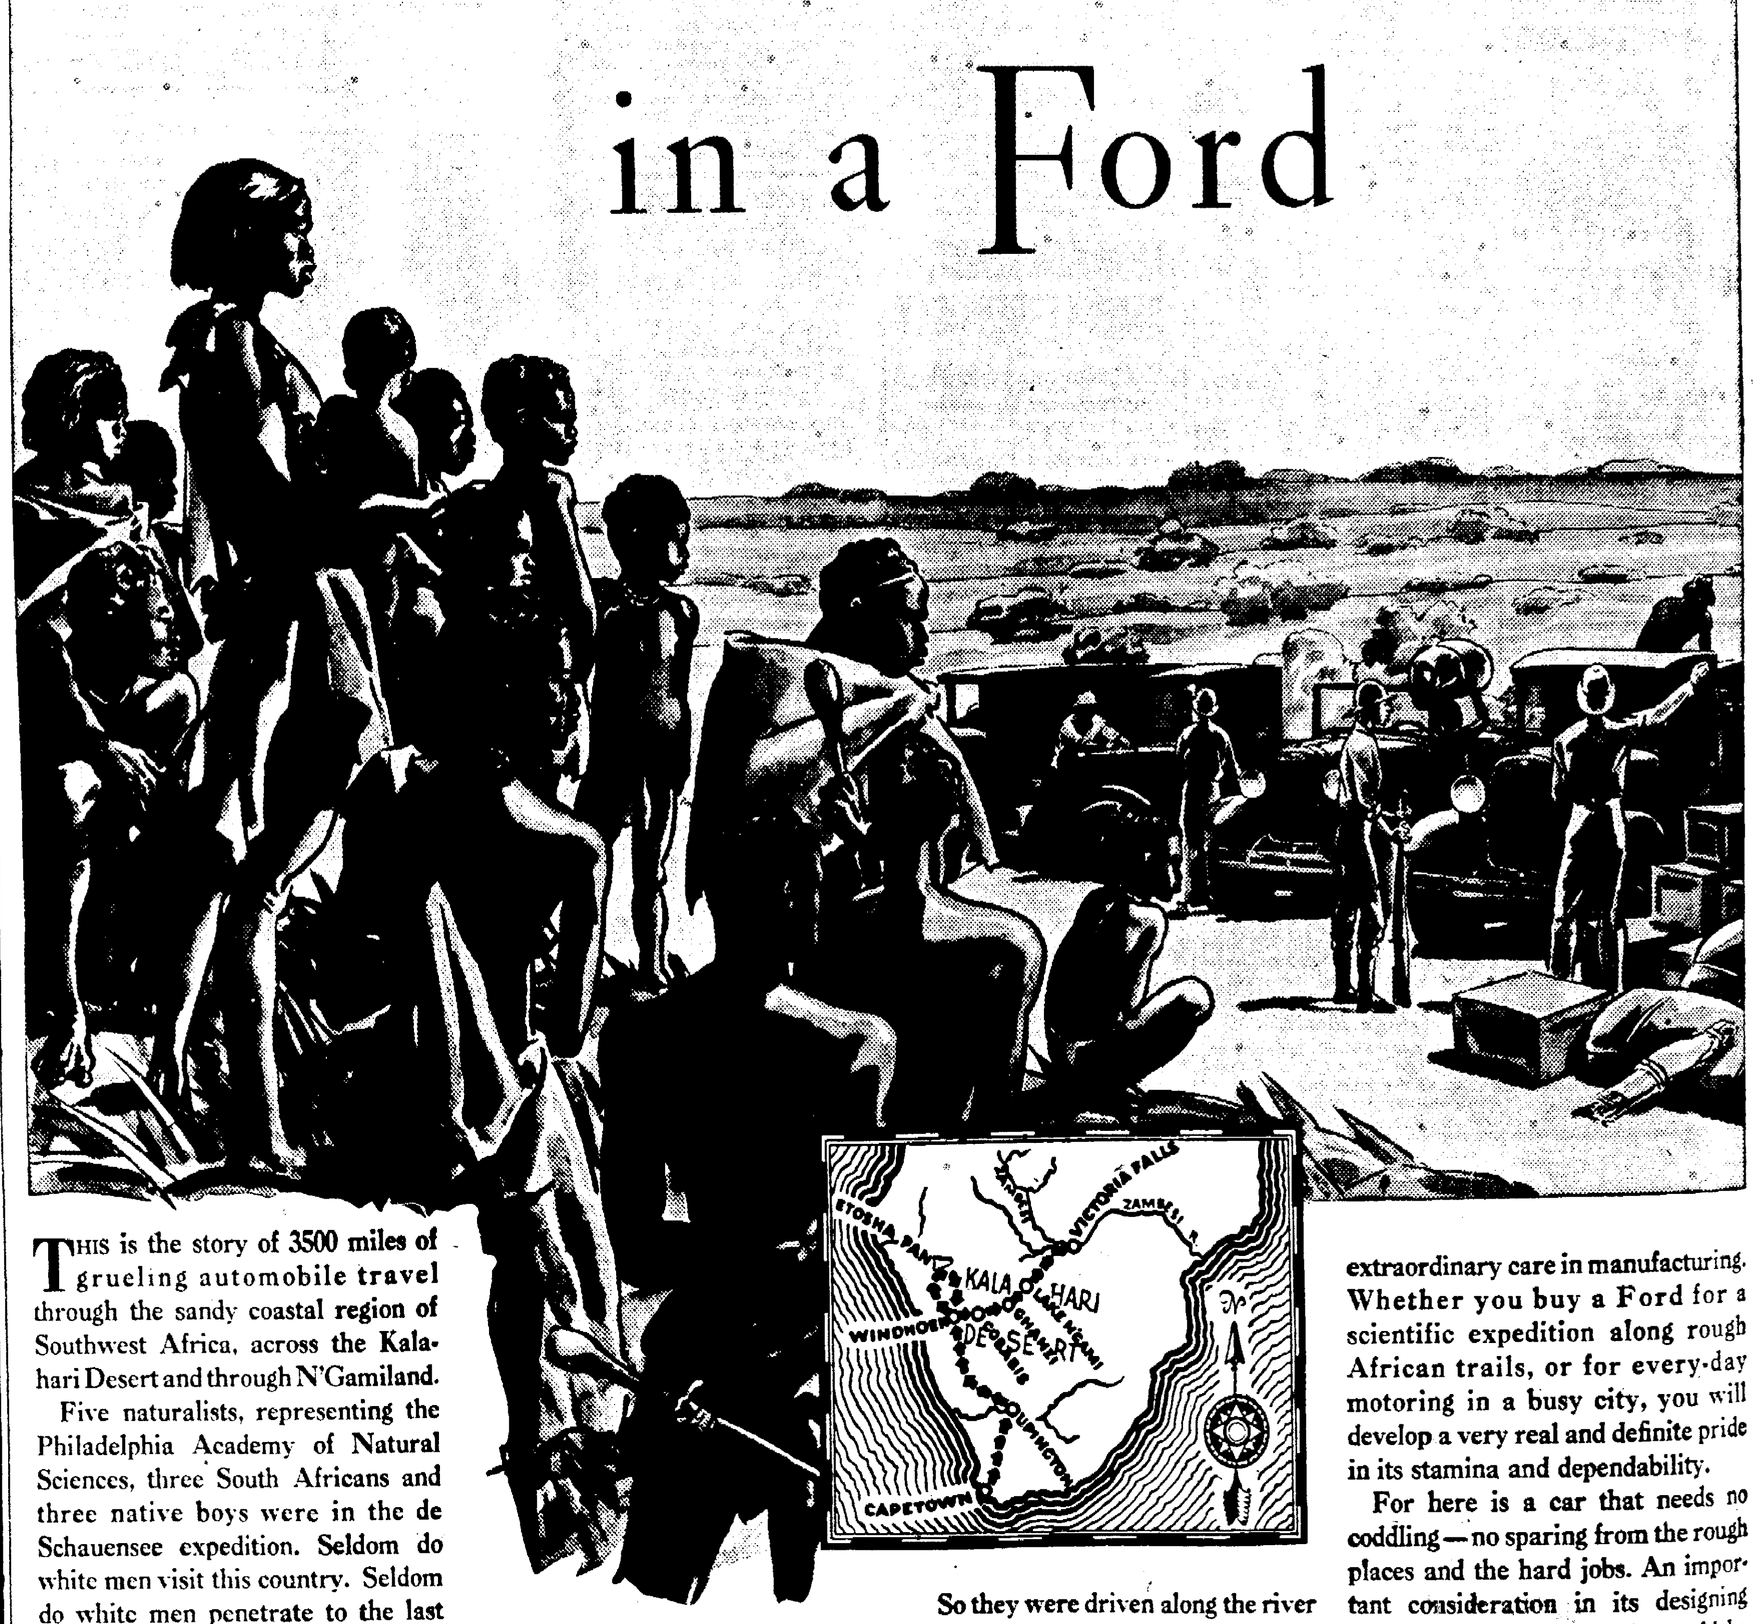
Across the Kalahari Desert in a Ford



THIS is the story of 3500 miles of grueling automobile travel through the sandy coastal region of Southwest Africa, across the Kalahari Desert and through N'Gamiland.

Five naturalists, representing the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, three South Africans and three native boys were in the de Schauensee expedition. Seldom do white men visit this country. Seldom do white men penetrate to the last remote stronghold of the fast disappearing African Bushman. The trip was made in a Ford car and three Ford trucks.

Traveling over rough, irregular trails—leaving those trails to crash through tangled, thorny underbrush—traversing dry, parched areas that had not seen rain in years—the Fords made a remarkable record for stamina and reliable mechanical operation. Through days of summer heat and nights of freezing cold, on occasions when the water supply was almost gone and delay would have been fatal, the Fords went steadily on and on. And, finally, when the long trip was over, they were sold at good prices in the little village of Maun.

Never were sales made under similar conditions. The purchasers knew what the Fords had been through and sought proof of good condition after so many miles of strenuous travel.

So they were driven along the river trail, turned abruptly off into deep sand-beds—extricated without need of help—and subjected to other tests in this land of difficult transportation. Sales were quickly made after such a demonstration.

This is but one of many interesting stories about the ability of the Ford to stand up under the severest driving conditions. The extra demands of long, hard travel reveal the high quality of its materials and extraordinary care in manufacturing. Whether you buy a Ford for a scientific expedition along rough African trails, or for every-day motoring in a busy city, you will develop a very real and definite pride in its stamina and dependability.

For here is a car that needs no coddling—no sparing from the rough places and the hard jobs. An important consideration in its designing was the realization that it would be used by millions of people, in different ways, in every section of the world. So it is made with a reserve of strength and power beyond the needs of the average day.

That is the Ford policy. That is the secret of the long-lived satisfactory performance of the Ford. Every part is built to endure—to give you many thousands of miles of economical, care-free motoring.

Voters To Decide Bond Issue for New School at Iberia

BUILDING TO COST $66,000

State Bans Use of Present Building After This Year.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Aug. 19—Washington township voters will be asked to approve a bond issue of $66,000 for a consolidated school building in Iberia, the school board decided today. The proposed building will be a combination high and elementary grades, on the same lot on which the other buildings are located. The high school now in use and other building have been condemned unfit for further use and will be torn down when the new building is completed. They will remain in use until the new building is completed.

Will Be Fireproof

Preliminary plans prepared by the school architect call for a plant with a capacity of 350 pupils which is more than the present enrollment. The building, which will be located near the center of the lot will be constructed of an almost fireproof brick and will be of fireproof construction.

Provision is made in the plans for a gymnasium and auditorium as required by regulations of the state department of education and sufficient laboratory and class rooms are included to care for all the departments of a modern school plant.

At the November election the fate of the project will be determined by the voters and if the bond issue is approved construction work will be started early next spring to assure the completion of the building before the opening of the school next fall, it was announced by Henry Lepp, president of the board.

School Inadequate

Mr. Lepp called attention to the fact that unless a new building is provided the Iberia schools can not open next year as the state department has ruled that the present buildings can not be used after this school year because of their inadequacy and poor condition.

The bond issue which of $66,000 represents four per cent of the tax duplicate of the Washington district and is the maximum allowed to be proposed without the special consent of the state tax commission.

Hire Drivers

Drivers for the four bus routes were employed by the board at a reduction in salary. They are Walter Clark, north route; A. Shickendantz, east route; Clarence Patzer, state road route, and Earl Stoneburner, Iberia route. There were 18 applicants for the four positions. Jess McDonald was employed as janitor.

ILLNESS FATAL TO GALION RESIDENT

Mrs. J. M. Murphy Succumbs at Home on South Union Street.

Special to The Star

GALION, Aug. 19—Mrs. Bee Anna Murphy, wife of J. M. Murphy, died at 3 p. m. yesterday at her home at 546 south Union street. She was taken ill about 10 days ago enroute home from a visit with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Murphy, in Dayton.

Mrs. Murphy was the last of a family of seven children born to William and Bridget Ann Graham. Her birthplace was in Piqua. She had resided in Galion for the last 44 years and was active in the work and social affairs of St. Patrick's church. She also was a member of the Catholic Ladies Benefit association and the Ladies auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Surviving are the husband and son, Dwight. A son, Wilbur, died in 1905.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 9 a. m. at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Fr. McFadden officiating. Interement will be made in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

MAN LOSES RIGHT TO DRIVE FOR 30 DAYS

D. J. Hogan Also Fined $15; Fire Damages William Smith's Auto.

D. J. Hogan, 41, of 759 Oak Grove avenue, was deprived of his right to drive an automobile for 30 days and was fined $15 and costs by Municipal Judge W. R. Martin this morning when he pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge. He was arrested last night following an automobile wreck on Uncapher avenue.

Hogan, the police say, was driving south on Uncapher avenue at the time the fire department answered a call to extinguish a fire in a car wrecked a few minutes before. In attempting to go around another car, Hogan lost control of his machine and the car went over the boulevard and into a yard, destroying a quantity of shrubbery. He was arrested and taken to police headquarters.

A few minutes before Hogan's accident, the fire department was called to extinguish a blaze in a Ford coupe belonging to William Smith of near here, which had been wrecked when it was sideswiped by a machine being towed by a car bearing Ohio license 65-026. The Smith car ran into a yard and turned over. Gasoline in the engine caught fire but was extinguished before doing any damage.

Smith, who escaped injury, told the police he was driving south on Uncapher avenue when in attempting to pass a machine towing another car, the towed car swerved out striking the side of his car. The name of the driver of the car was not learned.

FLOODS CONTINUE TO PERIL CHINA

Highest Ground in Hankow Under Five Feet of Water as Dyke Breaks.

By The Associated Press

HANKOW, China, Aug. 19 — Flood waters of the Yangtse river today broke through the big Chiakow dyke protecting Hankow's western suburb, inundating the native industrial district and taking several hundred more lives.

Adding to the chaos of the last three weeks, in which flood waters have robbed some 30,000,000 persons of their homes and left 10,000,000 of them destitute, the renewed onslaught of the river covered the highest ground in Hankow under five feet of water and the lower areas 10 to 20 feet under.

Epidemics became more serious among the refugees, who had nothing to drink but flood water. Typhoid, cholera and dysentery raged unchecked.

Industry in Hankow was demoralized. Big flour, cotton and silk mills were flooded when the dyke broke. Such confusion prevailed that it was impossible to count the casualties.

All foreigners were reported safe. The majority of foreign women had left or were leaving on every available steamer. Chinese were moving out by all other usable channels of travel.

BRITISHERS GET 1ST RIDE ON GERMAN ZEP

Graf Makes Tour of Isles; First of Kind Since World War.

LONDON, Aug. 19 — Soaring above the rainclouds, the Graf Zeppelins first party of British tourists early today saw the sun rise over the mull of Galloway with the hills of Scotland dimly defined in the distance.

After making the first peace time landing of a German Zeppelin on English soil last night, the dirigible circled southern England, racing through the sky with lights shining from her gondola. She headed for Ireland by way of Bristol channel and after passing over Dublin steered for Ulster and Scotland with the breaking of dawn.

The Graf was over the mull of Galloway at 5 a. m. and crossed the Solway firth at Dundrennan an hour later. Then altering her course from Glasgow and Edinburgh on account of bad weather she went straight to Newcastle and Carlisle, continuing southward along the east coast of England.

WANTS CATTLE BOAT FOR RUSSIAN TRIP

Judge Wishes He Could Grant Request of Kentucky Communist.

By The Associated Press

HARLAN, Ky., Aug. 19—William M. Gibbs, unemployed coal miner, who said he would prefer Russia to the Harlan county coal fields and was proud of being a member of the Communist party, was in jail here today awaiting grand jury action on a charge of criminal syndicalism.

He was arrested in one of a series of raids conducted since circuit court opened Monday to take up murder indictments against 31 men and scores of lesser charges against others growing out of a long-drawn-out labor controversy.

Gibbs, who said he was 35 years old and a World war veteran, said he had used his soldiers' bonus check to buy arms and ammunition. Deputies brought into court several rifles, about 1,000 rounds of ammunition, and a Communist party card made out in Gibbs' name.

"I wish there was a cattle boat going to Russia now," Gibbs told Circuit Judge D. C. Jones. In binding him over to the grand jury under bonds totaling $10,000 Judge Jones said he wished it were possible to ship Gibbs to Russia and added he hoped the federal court would entertain charges of sedition against him.

Seven men in all were arrested in the raids. Two negroes were dismissed and the others will be raigned later.

FOUR KILLED WHEN RESCUE PLANE FALLS

Cabin Ship Dives into Lake in Search for Victims of Storm.

By The Associated Press

RAINY LAKE, Ont., Aug. 19—Four members of an airplane rescue party from the provincial forestry service were killed yesterday just as they learned that the airman they sought was safe.

The accident, in which a large metal cabin plane of the Ontario forestry department, plunged into Rainy River lake, was the aftermath of the wrecking of two provincial planes in a storm Monday.

The dead were: Phillip A. Hutton of Toronto, pilot; R. V. Greer of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., mechanic; J. V. Stewart, district forestry department chief of Stratford, Ont., and A. J. Runciman of Stratford, copilot.

The party was searching for George Delahey, pilot of a flying boat which was wrecked in the storm Monday. Greer who had been in another plane, which also had been wrecked in the storm was guiding the party from the forestry base at Fort Frances.

Flying over the lake, the rescue plane sighted a signal from an island where Delahey had been taken by a party of American campers who rescued him after his plane sank.

As the large plane banked to land, Delahey and others on the island saw it drop into the lake from 200 feet. Two of the bodies were recovered.

FLIERS TAKE OFF ON TRIP TO COPENHAGEN

Space Valuable, but Detroit Pilot Takes Tuxedo Along for "Emergency."

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Aug. 19—Space and weight are at a premium on a transatlantic flight, but Edwin L. Preston found room for a Tuxedo when he took off yesterday on a hop-skip-and-a-jump flight to Copenhagen.

He said he "might need it in Copenhagen."

Robert H. Collington, Preston's co-pilot and radio operator, did not reveal whether his luggage includes formal dress.

Preston, now 30, has been flying since he was 18. With a back ground of a dozen years of army flying, barnstorming and air mail service, he looks upon the Copenhagen flight as just another incident in the day's work.

THEATERS IMPORT 100 N. Y. OPERATORS

Chicago Houses To Reopen After Closing Over Labor Troubles.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 19—The Chicago Tribune said today that more than 100 New York motion picture operators were being brought to Chicago by airplane to be used in reopening 100 theaters closed as a result of a controversy between the owners and the operators' union.

Ten of the New York operators arrived in two airplanes last night, and the others are to follow. The Tribune said all of them would be mobilized by Friday when the theaters will reopen.

The controversy concerns the number of operators employed in each theater. Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the Chicago union demanded the employment of two operators in each theater, while the owners insisted on using but one. A meeting was held between Maloy and the owners yesterday, but no agreement could be reached.

Council Approves Appointment Announced by Mayor; Discuss Street Work.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, Aug. 19—W. F. Bruce, president of the Mt. Gilead National bank, was named to succeed himself as a member of the board of Shortline railroad trustees at a council meeting Monday night. The appointment was announced by Mayor G. J. Young and immediately confirmed by council. Bruce's term will expire May 1, 1935. Another appointment is to be made the term of F. B. McMillen expiring in May this year. He will be reappointed if he will accept another five year term.

Complaints of merchants in Main street that the work of widening and repaving the street was not being pushed as rapidly as possible resulted in a motion being introduced instructing the city clerk to ask the state highway department officials to take some action to speed the contractor.

The fire committee was authorized to have the doors at the south side of Levering hall plainly marked as the entrance to the fire fighting equipment of the town in order to prevent parking in front of the doors. The Center street exit from the room housing the fire truck has been blocked several times.

Mayor G. J. Young was asked to investigate the activities of peddlers of vegetables, particularly peddlers who claim to have raised their wares themselves. The dealers are selling without license it is claimed and while no license is required if the products are grown by the man selling them it was stated that several are purchasing the products and then selling them here without a license.

MT. VICTORY MEN WILL FACE JURY

Quartet Implicated in Destruction of Property Placed Under Bond.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Aug 19—Freedom was granted two Mt. Victory men, accused of participating in the wrecking of a home in that village, as their four companion prisoners in Hardin county jail were bound to the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each.

W. G. Wagner, 33, and Walter Hoge, 27, were released at the request of Prosecutor Harry I. Kaylor who told Mayor George H. Lingrel that evidence tended to show the two were not guilty of destroying property. They were arrested with four other residents of the southern Hardin county village early Monday as the result of an escapade which terminated only after George W. Drumm, 72, had been beaten unconscious and his home damaged to the extent of $150, officials said.

Elmer Shark, 44, James Bird, 28, Joe Foley, 33, and Forest Butler, 29, were charged with assaulting Drumm with intent to kill and with malicious destruction of property.

Pleading not guilty when arraigned before Mayor Lingrel they were bound to the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 each.

Some dealers in duck feathers wants the state department to arrange a credit with Germany for the sale of their surplus stocks. Well, wouldn't that jar you? Who ever imagined there was a bear movement on in the duck feather market over here with all the feathers used in money-raising campaigns?

Labor is planning a campaign to get 15,000,000 eligible, but non-registered, voters who favor the modification of the Volstead law to register. But what would that tell? They might be like some of our law-makers who live wet, but vote dry.

President Henry S. The Latest Wickersham Report.

The report of nine of the eleven members of the Wickersham commission on law enforcement on the "causes of crime" can not readily be utilized either as a chart by which to identify the chief factors leading to crime or as a formula by which to work the cure of crime.

No doubt there is much in the 800-page report, made up chiefly of the findings and conclusions of a number of experts, which may ultimately prove of value, but it was submitted to the President without recommendations. "We find it impossible comaprehensibly to discover the cause of crime or factors in nonobservance of law," the report reads, and it is explained that the best the commission has been able to do in the present state of criminology and other social sciences with the time and money at the disposal of the commission is to submit a limited number of studies in the hope that they may have an effective bearing on the crime problem.

Both Colonel Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia, and Federal Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, the other two members of the commission, refused to sign the report, and the former took the other ten members to task for their utter failure to meet the President's specifications in naming the commission, that it would make accurate determination of fact and the causes of crime and follow these with "constructive, courageous conclusions which will bring public understanding and command public support of its solution."

Colonel Anderson's contention is that, if the crime problem is to be solved, the remedy must be found in the removal of the causes, and he suggested a government "institute of human research," to study personality and environment.

According to the colonel's view, the ultimate remedy is not to be found in repressive laws "or in efforts to suppress normal physical emotional or mental expression, but in a study of the deeper underlying causes for subnormal, or anti-social attitudes of conduct in seeking to remedy or to remove these causes both as to personality and environment and thus to substitute normal or social for abnormal or criminal attitudes."

The conclusion of the experts regarding the causes of crime ranged all the way from economic depression, the consequent unemployment, and bad environment to unpopular laws, political corruption, police graft and official dishonesty

Having very generally beaten the experts to the conclusion that the aggregate of all these factors is very largely responsible for the present crime situation, it is a question whether the tax-weary public will take to Colonel Anderson's suggestion of an institute of human research with enthusiasm. It is fairly safe to say that it would hardly care to spend another half million dollars for a continuation of the Wickersham commission's researches, experience having demonstrated that the various elements of the public have accepted only such of its findings and suggestions as coincided with their views and beliefs.

Girl Decoys and Entrapment Barred.

For some time it has been apparent that Colonel Woodcock meant just what he said when he stated that dry law enforcement was to be conducted on a higher plane under his administration as director than it had been in the past. Evidence of this may be had almost daily, one of the latest being the quick action taken by him in the cases of two of his agents operating in Buffalo. No sooner did he learn of accusations that they had transgressed than he ordered the suspension of one on a charge of drunkenness and ordered the other investigated on the charge that he had used an eighteen-year-old girl as a decoy with the result hat she had become intoxicated and was apprehended by the police. He at once made denial of a published report that the prohibition bureau had furnished the funds used by the girl and made public announcement that he would not tolerate the methods his agent is charged with having used. In other words, he gave notice that the girl decoy business was entirely out of joint.

And almost coincident with the colonel's sounding of taps over the girl decoy business, the federal circuit court of appeals of the Seventh circuit drove a large spike into the heart of the entrapment business.

About a year ago, three prohibition agents in connection with a man, who had formerly been engaged in the bootlegging business and was loaned to the agents by the state of Indiana, opened a pool-room in Indianapolis with the former bootlegger in charge to secure evidence against violators of the prohibition law. Thirteen arrests were made, of those arrested seven being policemen. One policeman was granted a new trial and the case against another was dismissed. Evidence tending to show that the policemen were corrupted by money bribes, by liquor, by free drinks, were offered when the trial of the other five came up in the federal court for the Southern district of Indiana. The government's case being in, a motion for a directed verdict in their favor was made and denied, and on this denial the matter was carried to the federal circuit court on appeal, the jury having found the policemen guilty. The higher court concluded that the evidence established an estoppal against the government and found that the motion to direct a verdict for the policemen defendants should have been granted.

In reversing the judgment of the lower court, the circuit court uphled the rule of law, which was cited, that if an officer or a person places into the mind of some one else that he should commit a crime, when that was not in that person's mind until it was so placed there, and he goes ahead and commits that crime, he can not be convicted if the person who placed that into his mind, does it for the purpose of entrapping him. That is to say, there must be a strong suspicion that the person is a law violator, or that person must do something himself to invite the invitation to commit a crime, before it can be suggested by some one else, and not be considered as an entrapment, because public policy forbids that officers sworn to enforce the law should seek to have that law violated, and that those whose duty it is to detect criminals, should create them.

That is to say, in this case, public policy says that a prohibition officer who is sworn to enforce the law, should not himself, seek to violate that law, and that they whose duty it is to detect crime, should not create it.

So that when an officer induces a person who has had no intention of committing a crime, to violate the law, the courts will not lend their aid in the punishment of persons thus lured into committing crime.

From this it may be taken, unless a higher court overrules the Seventh circuit federal court of appeals, not only is the woman decoy to be barred by the stand of Colonel Woodcock, but the entrapment game as well.

Editorial Opinion.

A NATIONAL CREED.

Colonel Paul V. McNutt, past national commander of the American legion, in his speech to Pythians at the Chautauqua services of the order, declared the nation's need of a creed—a creed of faith in the ability of our people to uphold and preserve an adequate national defense. He denounced the interests seeking dangerous reduction of the army, navy, marine corps, the citizens' military training camps, the national guard, the organized reserves, the reserve officers' training camps and the abolishment of military training in schools and colleges.

Commander McNutt marshalled the facts of the past history of civilization in support of his earnest advocacy of a reliable national defense. He pointed to the dubious value of treaties in circumstances of emergency. He urged that profit be taken out of battle—the bloodstained profit accruing out of a nation's peril.

Colonel McNutt argued in favor of progressive disarmament, but urged that practical sense demands that until actual and general disarmament of the nations begins the United States must be kept competent for defense, and strong enough to assist in the enforcement of peace.

In this view there is no antagonism, no incongruity, between practical and spiritual leadership and development.

The creed to which Mr. McNutt referred would recognize no divided allegiance. American citizens only are desired in America. If this country and the national flag can not be accepted without reservation, then its gates should be opened outward for all those of different thought. The creed demands also an unqualified citizen service, a unified service of citizens and resources.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

JAPAN SLIPS.

Japan has missed an opportunity to use the diplomacy for which she is justly famous. In punishing the American fliers, Pangborn and Herndon, with heavy fines, the Japanese government has needlessly created ill-will in the United States. Japan's mistake was not in what she did, but how she did it—just as the United States blundered in the manner of excluding Japanese immigrants.

We do not believe for a moment that these aviators, in violating Japanese laws and military regulations regarding flying over and photographing fortified zones, did so deliberately or maliciously. We do not believe they are American military spies, as widely intimated in Japan.

But even granting the Japanese contention that her regulations are valid and that the Americans violated them deliberately, a few dim and questionable aerial photographs could not harm Japan as much as the misunderstanding created in America by the punishment of the aviators.

If the Japanese authorities simply had destroyed the photographs and accepted expressions of regret from the fliers and American officials for the episode, Japan would have come out on top. As it is, the enemies of peace on both sides of the Pacific will use the incident to spread mutual mistrust. That result is as injurious to Japan as to the United States. —Columbus Citizen.

Typhoid Fever "Carriers."

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Recently, after a wedding held in New York City, fifteen persons were stricken with typhoid fever. The health department immediately investigated and found that a woman who had assisted in the preparation of the food was a "typhoid carrier."

A typhoid carrier is an individual who carries the germs of typhoid fever without being infected. Usually such persons are not aware of the fact that they are carriers.

It is the duty of all public health bureaus to follow up and carefully study all cases of this sort. The menace of typhoid carriers is apparent and the results of what they can do are readily seen, as in this recent wedding dinner with its unhappy sequel.

In this instance all those who were stricken with the disease had eaten chicken salad which had been prepared by the carrier. This woman is now under the observation of the department of health and she will be required to conform to the rules relating to typhoid carriers. These rules prescribe regular supervision by the department of health and forbid the carrier to cook or serve food.

Typhoid fever is caused by taking into the body typhoid germs which may be present in contaminated water, milk or other food. The disease is exceedingly rare now, but at one time was numbered among the most dreaded diseases of mankind.

Within the past few years there has been perfected a vaccine against typhoid. This vaccine, when injected at weekly intervals for three weeks, gives protection from typhoid fever. It is called a "triple vaccine," because, in addition to protecting against typhoid fever, it protects against two types of "para-typhoid" fever, diseases very similar to typhoid fever.

This injection is given to all soldiers as well as to most government employes. It is because of this preventive that one never hears of a case of typhoid fever in the United States army or navy.

If you are living in a neighborhood where there has been any typhoid, or if you are contemplating a trip abroad through countries where the water and milk supply are of doubtful quality, you should be inoculated. The injection is simple, painless and will give practically complete protection against a terrible disease.

It is hoped that eventually all typhoid fever carriers will be under the close supervision of the proper health officials. When this is the case there will no longer be any sudden outbreaks of this disease.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

PAM. Q—What causes expectoration of bile in the morning or any time after sleeping? What treatment would relieve the trouble?

A—This must be due to biliousness—correct your diet and be sure that your system is clear. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

* * *

D.E. Q—What would cause a prickly feeling as though something was running up and down the legs and feet?

2—Would iodine painted on the neck, have any tendency to reduce a goitre?

A—This is probably due to some circulatory disturbance—application of heat and massage should give relief. Improve the circulation by improving the health in general. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—No. The medication and further treatment should be prescribed by the doctor attending the individual case. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Arts of Early Semites.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Exhaustive researches by scientists, into the remains of early Semitic civilization, indicate an amazing skill in the industrial arts. A considerable knowledge of chemistry was undoubtedly at their disposal. And they were expert workers in metal, in particular gold and silver.

The Semites overcame the Sumerians, and instead of destroying, adopted the civilization of the conquered. The famous Sargon was a great king and warrior, and conquered many of his enemies. His reign was about 2872 B. C. Undoubtedly the Semites were familiar with silver-mining; for an inscription on one of Sargon's statutes reads: "The god Enlil gave unto him—Sargon—the upper land, Maer, Pamuthi and Ibla, as far as the cedar forests and the silver mountains." It was at the mountains here referred to that silver was undoubtedly mined.

These Semites also made various implements and utensils of copper, especially pots and receptacles of various shapes and sizes. These copper household utensils and ornaments were sold in bazaars in the cities.

Assyria arose as a kingdom, to power and influence, during the second millennium B. C. One of the great Assyrian patrons of learning was Assurbanipal, who flourished about 668 B. C. He had an immense library, and was noted as a patron of learning and the arts. His records ran up into the tens of thousands, and actually 25,000 tablets from his library have been excavated and stored in the British museum.

In his "Makers of Chemistry," Holmyard has pointed out that among the tablets rescued are several which deal with the making of glass in a strictly technical or scientific way. These tablets have proved of exceptional interest to students of the history of chemistry.

In analyzing the inscriptions on these tablets, Dr. R. Campbell Thompson has shown great ingenuity. The three main ingredients in the glass-making were found to be alkali, pure quartz sand and chalk. An artificial pink or red coral was manufactured by the Assyrians. The ingredients are given as 7,200 parts of an ordinary glass, thirty-two parts of oxide of tin, twenty parts of antimony, an unreadable number of parts of salt or saltpetre, and one part of gold. This proportion of gold is known to be the right proportion for the preparation of what is technically termed ruby glass.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Resorted to Indian Law.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

A life of adventure spent in the Ohio of Indian days was that of William Smally, of Clinton county. Born in western Pennsylvania in 1764, he was captured by Indians in his childhood, and spent fourteen years with them. When he was twenty years old, he left the Indians and joined his parents in Pennsylvania. A few years later they removed to a place not far from Cincinnati. He did scout work for Harmar and St. Clair, and was with the latter at his defeat. In that battle he said he discharged his rifle twenty-five times and twenty-one of the shots took effect.

He also was with General Wayne's army when it moved upon the Indians to make good the defeat of St. Clair. On that occasion he escaped death by use of his knowledge of the Indian language. With two other scouts he had been sent ahead, but coming upon an Indian camp, they were seen and fired upon. His two companions were killed, but Smally quickly taking shelter behind a tree, called to the Indians that he had come to join them, and he was accepted. He improved the first opportunity to leave them, however, and rejoined Wayne's forces before the battle of Fallen Timbers, in which he took part.

Then he settled on Todd's fork in Clinton county and lived there engaged in hunting, fishing and trapping until 1836, when he moved to Illinois, where three years later he died. He had bought a small tract of land in Clinton county from a Cincinnati lawyer who promised a deed later. After a number of postponements, Smally shouldered his rifle and walked to Cincinnati and informed the lawyer that if at the end of three days he had not placed the deed in his hand, he would take his scalp. As the old Indian fighter gave every indication that he meant what he said, the lawyer produced the deed within the stipulated time and "Indian law" was not invoked.

The Ways of London.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

London, Aug. 19—London comes to life with a quick gush at 9 in the morning. Five minutes before it is gray and solitary and [illegible] as by a mechanical timing spring: into action. Railway termini become a human [illegible]. London bridge flows with crowds. Pavements are packed. "The City" boils.

Every one not "on the dole" is suburb conscious, although the term "suburb" is anathema. A Londoner refers to his "little place in Surrey" or "comes up from Kent." "The City" is the place to work, but for sleeping prefers those rural spots eternally threatened with better train service.

The "work trains," featuring cheaper fare arrive in London at 8 a. m. and carry [illegible] of the stenographers and office workers [illegible] they remain in the stations to read or [illegible] fast and emerge with 9 o'clock crowds. Everybody walks from stations. Real business begins at 10 o'clock.

After watching London going to work turned off from pulsating Piccadilly into the sombre Eden of celibacy known as "Albany." It is a court—a sui generis where only bachelors are permitted. No woman ever lodges here since 1804.

When a man takes such lodgings it is tantamount to telling the world he is to remain single the rest of his life. In earlier days it was a literary haven. Lord Byron once dwelt at No. 2. Bulwer Lytton later moved into the same quarters, and Macauly wrote his history in No. 1.

I like to eat at the A. B. C. and Lyons restaurants. Particularly because of the chance to rub elbows with the crowds and eavesdrop. They suggest our Child's before they were "arty." And the waitresses are gloriously snobbish, eyeing you with fishlike coldness as you give your order.

At noon in a Lyons,' beaming like one of those good will ambassadors at an Atlantic City convention, I asked a pale blonde if they served Cornish patties. She flounced off like a wet hen returned to place one before me, shrugged and walked away. I tried to work up nerve to ask for a glass of milk, but could not make it.

In London one hears the Irish Free State a smacking success. In England the crown takes about $1.10 on every pound, but in Ireland it amounts to a shade less than seventy-five cents. Ireland's unemployment problem compared to Britain's, is infinitesimal and the Emerald isle draws huge crowds of visitors who used to spend all their time in London.

Piccadily circus and environs after night are filled with damozels who wink, look back and wait. It is remindful of those loose-living days when street roaming centered around the Haymarket. There seems to be an extraordinarily large number of ladies of the dusk who are black-haired and black-eyed Russian women. Too, like ghosts of old London, hansom cabs stand at curbs after midnight and Cockney jehus from perches inquire, after looking about with a pseudo air of mystery: "See a bit of the seamy side, Guvner? Hop right in."

In strange cities my yokelism invariably leaps to the fore. I am curiously aroused by sinister inuendoes of underworld guides and should I follow personal inclinations would engage them. It is not so much what they have to show—I have been around a little, thanks. Three Sunday excursions in a row last summer—but their mental outlook on life interests. When human beings reach such a stratum of degradation I have an eagerness to know what routes they took to arrive there. I have always believed it is more or less accidental destiny that many, who are not, did not become underworld guides.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 19—It's a regular battlefield doctor who keeps the President of the United States in physically good condition.

And to Captain Joel Thompson Boone orders are to be obeyed by his patients, whether he is a President or some one of lesser rank.

This small man, slenderly erect, dark and with steady, serious eyes, doesn't seem the type of person who could play the part of "taskmaster" on occasions. But he can, and does, as White House physician.

Thus when he thought that President Hoover should arise early in the morning and have a medicine ball around the White House lawn before tackling the days work, the President did so.

Fishing is about the only form of recreation for which Mr. Hoover has displayed a real lure but he "medicine-balls" just the same.

Yet "Doc" Boone is far from being the serious-minded and exacting man of medicine.

* * *

If a practical joke is perpetrated at the President's week-end camp on the Rapidan, usually it can be traced either to the good doctor or Lawrence Richey, one of the White House secretariat. Junior cabinet members who have been guests at the Rapidan can testify to this.

He is a general favorite with newspapermen who cover the White House. There are few of them he hasn't taken in hand when they were ailing.

His two decorations — the croix de guerre and the distinguished service cross—were earned under shell fire at Belleau wood.

As far as is known, Captain Boone has no political ambitions, though his job in the White has served as a stepping stone to big things.

President Wilson's physician, Dr. Cary Grayson, got to be a nationally known figure as well as an admirable doctor, through a White House assignment.

* * *

And there was Dr. C. E. Sawyer, who came from Marion, Ohio, to attend President Harding. He got to be a general officer of the medical reserve by the same route and has returned to veterans' hospitalization work.

Perhaps the case of the late Major General Leonard Wood is the most outstanding. As army doctor he served as medical-military aide to President McKinley.

It was at the White House that he met with Theodore Roosevelt. From this association came the famous Rough Rider [illegible] in the Spanish-American war that [illegible] led Wood almost to the presidency itself.

And "Doc" Boone, who holds the rank of commander in the navy, is Captain Boone as long as he serves at the White House.

For Thursday, Aug. 20

GENERALLY adverse conditions may be expected on this day, according to the unfavorable lunar auspices. This may be felt in business, employment and in the domestic, social or affectional relations. There may be small anxieties, vexations and irritabilities as well as postponements and disappointments. Those in employment are urged especially to be on guard.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of many minor vexations, disappointments and delays in their affairs, affecting both their business and private relations. Employment is especially in jeopardy, unless application, firm control and cool judgment be exercised. The menace, however, in all cases is comparatively mild. A child born on this day may be quick-tempered, impulsive and self-indulgent, disposed to submerge its important affairs in the pursuit of pleasure—to its detriment, unless given careful early training.

Juanita's Discovery

JUANITA crossed Mrs. Belaise's ... and, guided by the light ... the dressing room door, ... it and threw it open. ... marquesa crouched beside a ... unk with terror. Her eyes ... behind Juanita to see who ... with her.

"... your room," Juanita said ... to the open door.

... was flinging the marque... belongings into a bag. Her ... bag had not been unpacked.

"We are leaving in five minutes," she remarked. "If you are dressed in that time, well and good. If not —"

At the end of five minutes the marquesa had done no more than find her purse and put on her slippers. Juanita threw the red cape about the marquesa's kimono. She opened the door and as the marquesa stood stolidly, "Will you go," she asked, "or shall I call Mr. Standard? I'd rather not, but I will"

The marquesa went out the door, accepting one of the bags. She followed Juanita out the front door. In the street Juanita led the way toward town, the marquesa stepping gingerly in her jeweled heels. After three blocks a taxi passed, and Juanita, hailing it, pushed the marquesa aboard. "To the Tijon hotel," she told the driver.

"My trunk!" whimpered the marquesa, relieved to know that their destination was only the hotel. Their trunks had followed by train. It was a mere matter of telephoning. Juanita did not reply.

Flying through the quiet streets, her mind went back over the events that she had understood in a breath as she beheld the marquesa crouched against the chest. The necklace. ..The letter in code...The telephone call in which the marquesa had mentioned the presence of the Fouches in Biloxi on the very night that they were robbed...The robbery of the Stevens home...the Du-Bois....

Juanita recalled what had seemed evidence of mere ill-bred curiosity on the marquesa's part, an interest in the plans of houses they had visited, in doors and where they led, panels and cupboards and safes. It had disgusted her, but nothing more. She had known such people before.

Even tonight she might not have suspected the marquesa, or not have realized her office is so swift a flash, had she not remembered Nelly's jewel case being taken from that chest; had she not recalled also Madame Fouche's telling the marquesa that Nelly kept her jewels there. Madame's conversation with the marquesa had been in French, but Juanita had understood enough to remember now. The conversation had been quite audible at that point, and both she and Adrian had listened interestedly.

The marquesa had seemed incredible at the time. Had she actually come later to believe that Nelly would leave the gems in the drawer during her absence? Probaby the marquesa had ascertained that they were not in Biloxi, was looking tonight only on the chance that they might be here.

Juanita was convinced that the marquesa herself would not rob a house while living in it. Her face had proclaimed her almost the actual thief and would have been revelation enough in itself, but undoubtedly she was searching the place only that she might report to her confederates—Divitt, Umberto of course—Gabreau—Molly.

Juanita closed her eyes. Molly. Molly who had seemed so kind . . "I have been blind," she thought How could she have believed that Divitt and Molly were merely giving her a vacation? . . . Juanita laughed, her hand at her throat. The marquesa looked up crossly.

The taxi had crossed Canal, had entered the dim and narrow Royal street, halted before the Tijon. The driver carried in their bags, for the hotel seemed asleep. Juanita waited for the marquesa to pay and tip him, then drew her charge along the sidewalk to the iron gates of Divitt's Parlors and rang the bell.

After a long time the slide went down and Gabreau's monkey face peered out. That gate creaked open —shut. Gabreau was looking only at Jaunita—Juanita with blazing eyes, her gold cloak wrapped about her.

The doors of the parlors were closed. The court was very still. "Where's Mr. Divitt?" Juanita asked.

Gabreau motioned to Divitt's office, and as Juanita, drawing the marquesa, turned toward the stair, he stepped before her.

"He is talk," said Gabreau. "He mus' not be disturb'."

Juanita mounted the stair, and Gabreau glanced toward the marquesa as at one who would understand.

"He's in conference," the marquesa interpreted.

Juanita, catching the marquesa's arm, went up the star, Gabreau following, making no further protest.

Divitt himself opened the door, staring in silence as Juanita entered, pushing the marquesa in ahead of her. Umberto sat beside the desk, his face going blank at sight of the women, one only partly clad, one obviously as she had come from some festivity. Trouble apparently was in the air. Gabreau came in and shut the door, standing before it.

Jubilee's Pardner
A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY would have been the middle of the week if we were going to school but all days look alike in vacation, and all of them are good. I got up and let Jubilee down and went down and milked the dummed brutes, and just when I was finishing them up and hanging up the milk stool Peanuts came in the alley and poked his head in the hole in the side of the barn and grinned at me and I grinned back, and then just as he started to climb in the Lost Bag of Tripe gave him everything that was in the barn bucket. I guess he thought I was still mad with Peanuts and he would make a hit with me, but Peanuts clumb through the hole and when the Lost Bag of Tripe looked at me to see if I was going to help him and saw that I wasn't he skun out.

Peanuts chaseted him out of the yard and then came back to wait till I had strained the milk and fed my face, and then when we started for the pasture we went around past the Lost Bag of Tripe's house and Peanuts dasted him to come out and fight, but he wouldn't and when his mother asted and found out what was the matter she asted them why htey didn't fight with the Lost Bag of Tripe's boxing gloves that he has had a long time but never dasted to use. So he went and got them and threw two of them to Peanuts and put on a pair himself, and they started in Peanuts hit him and made his head bounce back but they were like pillows, and then he hit Peanuts and made his nose bleed, and that made the Lost Bag of Tripe's mother proud and she made them shake hands, and I was looking at the gloves and found that the Lost Bag of Tripe had tooken almost all the stuffing out of one of them so that when he soaked Peanuts he soaked him. I am not a tattletail so I didn't tell. I asted the Lost Bag of Tripe to put them on with me but he wouldn't. I wouldn't if I had been him.

On the way to the pasture we went over a fence and were getting us some apples but the farmer knows what time we go to the pasture so he is always watching his appletrees and he got after us and we got to the pasture before our cows did. Then we et our apples and went for a swim.

When we ewent home to play with my acting pole my grandfather had been fishing and brang home a big string of fish and I had to clean them and take some around to the neighbors. I took some over to Wagmores and Mrs. Wagmore asted me if I had noticed the grapes lately and she went out with me and a lot of them were ripe and she told me to pick some for my mother, so I did, and then I had to go back and thank her, and then it was time to go for the cows. Frenchy's father came and took my ant to a picture show. I bet she crowded him off of his seat.

Tomorrow there are a lot of airplanes coming to the city and we're going in and look at them.

CHIEF WARNS OF FIRES IN ALLEYS

Says Law Prohibits Such Burning of Rubbish Inside City.

A number of complaints received of persons building bonfires in alleys has caused Fire Chief T. J. McFarland to again call attention to the ordinance against the building of fires in any alley within the corporation lines.

"Every alley in the city is now accessible to automobiles," the chief said yesterday, "and for this reason, if for no other, the building of fires in alleys is a menace."

An unusually large number of complaints have been received by both the fire chief and Health Commissioner Dr. N. Sifritt, from the east end of the city where it is said it has become a custom to build fires at night.

"Heart of a Wife"
BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Begins To Sum Up the Results of the Interview.

TO my great relief, Philip Veritzen rose from his chair as he asked me again whether I would surely have the revision of my third act ready for his inspection the next day.

"At eleven o'clock to the minute," I told him, trying to smile and make my voice light and friendly, when what I longed for more than anything else in the world was a sandbag, or a blackjack I could wield over Philip Veritzen's handsome head, with enjoyment, I told myself grimly, for I rarely had been angrier than when he had been giving me his "reasons" for preferring Avis Arlen to Mary as a daughter-in-law.

"Thank you, I shall be here," he said "Remember, the stiletto, not the pick axe, when you are operating upon that character, Vickers."

He must quite fancy his unoriginal simile, I reflected, as I smiled dutifully at it, for he had used it twice within a few minutes. But I did not care if he recited the alphabet backwards, if he only succeeded in getting himself out of the room before I lost control of my nerves altogether, and shrieked hysterically, as I had been afraid I should more than once since the beginning of our interview.

But at last with a final low bow, a final kiss upon my hand, he was gone, and waiting only until I was sure he was out of hearing, I locked the library door, and paced the floor rapidly, my never-failing remedy for getting myself under control.

I had salvaged my play! That was the first happy thought which came to me, when at last, with nerves again under control, I ceased my ranging up and down the room like a prisoned animal, and sank into a big chair to rest for a minute or two before going to Dicky with whatever news I had, as I promised I would do when the interview was over.

Retrospection

The character of Vickers which, subconsciously, I had made a caricature of Dicky, had not ruined my third act, as I had feared. I was sure that I could follow Mr. Veritzen's command to alter the speeches and the business I had given the offending character, and bring him into harmony with the rest of the play. And the assurance which Mr. Veritzen had given me that my third act not only carried out the promise of the two without any [illegible] down," but also was as "pretty a piece of craftsmanship" as he had seen in a long time, made me glow with the peculiar happiness which only professional recognition of a piece of creative work can give.

Not even my bearding of Philip Veritzen concerning Noel and Mary had ruined my chances for having my play produced, as I had feared in those few minutes when his eyes had glittered with the fury which is his at anything savoring of lese majeste. Miraculously, he had quelled his anger—or forgotten it.

Mary and Noel

The reasons he had given me for his opposition, had angered me almost beyond control, but looking them over in retrospect, I realized that as long as he did not openly oppose the engagement, Mary and Noel could be depended upon to look after their own interests. If they needed any aid, I promised myself grimly that they should have it, no matter what the consequences to myself. With that pledge disposing of my last anxiety, I arranged my manuscript, and carrying it with me—for I intended to take no chance of anyone's seeing the lines I subconsciously had given to the character Vickers—I unlocked the door of the library and started for Dicky's room.

I had gone but a few steps, when Lillian rounded the corner of the hall, and grasped my arm.

"I've been lying in ambush ever since Katie ushered old Phil out," she said. "I've had her stationed in the hall waiting to do the heavy ceremonies ever since he came in. I didn't want to see him, for I wanted to get the lowdown on it from you, yourself. But tell me, now, before, like Dickens' Peggotty, I burst all my buttons, what was his verdict? Good, I can see that from your face, but how good? Come on, spill the good news!"

"He likes the third act," I told her frankly, for Lillian and I have no reserves of mock modesty between us. "He says it bears out the promise of the other two, and that it is good work."

"Do you mean to say?" she asked breathlessly, "that he did not cut—like a single revision?"

My mental thermometer [illegible] abruptly. The [illegible] dreaded had [illegible] somewhere, I [illegible] this [illegible] with [illegible]

TWIST BREAD LOWERS YOUR FOOD BILL COST

The Grocer and Equal Rights for Women

Women began releasing themselves from the bondage of kitchen slavery in the latter part of the last century. Instead of baking bread they bought bakers' bread.

But if it wasn't for her grocer, who supplies these things she used to make, chances are, that even with Votes for Women there would still be no equal rights.
